WILLIAM NELSON

The subjoined sketch of the life and work of Mr. Nelson has been constructed largely from an article which appeared in the Morning Call, Paterson, sometime in August, 1914, and from an appreciation by Mr. Joseph F. Folsom, editor of "The Proceedings of the New Jersey Historical Society," of which organization Mr. Nelson was a member and officer for thirty-four years, filling for nearly three quarters of that period the positions of Recording and Corresponding secretaries.

William Nelson was born at Newark, New Jersey, February 10, 1847, the son of William and Susan Nelson, and died at Matamoras, Pennsylvania, August 10, 1914. His early education was received in the city of his birth, where, at the age of sixteen, he became a reporter on the Daily Advertiser and where, later, or until he was nineteen, he gave instruction in English at German schools. Also, he taught in a district school in Connecticut Farms, now the town of Union, and in South Orange.

In 1865 Mr. Nelson removed to Paterson, of which town he drafted the charter in 1871, and which he made his place of residence and centre of his varied interests and activities. There, during his spare hours, he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1868, subsequently devoting himself to the legal profession, in which he acquired enviable distinction.

Notwithstanding his industry in the practice of this profession, Mr. Nelson found time to take a prominent part in politics, to interest himself in business affairs, in educational matters, and to pursue his historical and genealogical studies, in the last-named of which his activity was practically tireless, his research exhaustless, his thoroughness unexampled. By voice, by written paper, and by published work, he contributed a vast amount of original knowledge upon all phases of New Jersey history. Many of his papers on these subjects are standard references, and for over a quarter of a century he has been recognized throughout the United States as an authority in his field.

From 1885, "The Proceedings of the New Jersey Historical Society," together with "The New Jersey Archives," were compiled and edited by Mr. Nelson. In the first-named publication his reports as Corresponding secretary, presented annually before the Society, are to be found, making a great mine of material in which future historians may discover statistical ore for preservation in a more permanent form.

Among Mr. Nelson's writings are,—"The Indians of New Jersey;" "Per- sonal Names of Indians in New Jersey;" "Fifty Years of Historical Work in New Jersey;" "Some New Jersey Printers and Printing in the Eighteenth Century;" "The Discovery and Early History of New Jersey;" "Biographical Sketches of Members of the Assembly, 1754;" "Alexander Hamilton;" "Josiah Hornblower and the First Steam Engine in America;" "William Burnet, Governor of New York and New Jersey, 1720-1728;" "History of Passaic and Bergen Counties;" "Early Will-Making in New Jersey;" "Clifford Stanley Sims—Soldier, Statesman, Jurist;" and "Summary of the Law of New Jersey in Relation to Public Bridges." Besides his publications he left a very large number of manuscripts and data for works which he had hoped to be able to complete during his lifetime.

Recognizing the wonderful range of knowledge which Mr. Nelson had covered, Princeton University conferred upon him in 1896 the degree of Master of Arts, and an alcove in the University library was named the Nelson Alcove in honor of his historical and literary work. He was Corresponding secretary of the New Jersey Historical Society, and a member of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science, Pennsylvania Historical Society, New England Historical and Genealogical Society, Congrès International des Américanistes, as well as of many other literary and scientific organizations.

The sonnet by Mr. Joseph Folsom, here appended, is reprinted from "The Proceedings of the New Jersey Historical Society," Third Series, Volume IX, No. 3, for 1914, and is entitled,—"The Book of William Nelson:"

*An open book to him New Jersey lay,
The annals of her fortunes fairly writ;
A scene each page by fact or fancy lit,
Wherein their parts did many actors play;
He mark'd the Pilgrim founder win his way
Amid the wild with piety and wit;
The Redman saw beyond the mountain flit,
Yet learned his language, and his simple lay.*

*Or colony or sovereign State, he knew
Her laws, her legends and her noted men;
Her roads he saw by stage and motorcar
Travers'd, and how canal and railway grew—
The leaves were turn'd till twilight fell, and then
He clos'd the book, and life's full calendar.*

ANNOUNCEMENT

A number of the items in this collection were damaged in greater or lesser degree during the destructive holocaust in Paterson, February, 1902. These, however, for the most part, have been skilfully repaired and preserved between sheets of transparent gauze, and in some instances, rebound. A statement to that effect has been made herein wherever found necessary.

Many of the ancient manuscripts and documents collected by Mr. Nelson give evidence of the haphazard methods followed by lawyers and their clerks during the early period of the legal profession in New Jersey, and of the numerous irrelevant uses to which such papers were put when the period of the necessity for their preservation had passed. For example, the endorsement of a document as a "Last Will and Testament of [say] Peter Hornfeck;" when, in point of fact, the document itself has nothing to do with Peter Hornfeck or his Will and Testament; or, the endorsement,—“List of Articles in the Household of [say] Johannes van Studdenford,”—such endorsement having absolutely no relation to the document upon which it was written.

It might well be that these documents were used merely as wrappers for the better preservation of papers to which the endorsements have reference. But even if so, the indication is, as intimated by Mr. Nelson in his "Early Will-Making in New Jersey," that the majority of these old papers had been most carelessly filed.

That little or no appreciation was had at the time of the importance of such papers used in the manner described, is indicated by the fact that several of these wrappers were specimens of the work of William Bradford, New York City's first printer, as well as valuable autograph letters of the early New Jersey Proprietors, and others.

A list of some of the most important items in the collection is given on the pages immediately following.

If the one transmitting the order is unknown to the Association, a deposit should be sent or reference submitted. Shipping directions should also be given.

SCARCE WORK on the early history of the Swedish Church in America, and particularly unusual because of the folding map which shows a comparatively large portion of New Jersey, and smaller sections of New York, Long and State Islands, Pennsylvania, &c.

The author, a son of the Minister to New Sweden in 1697, born in America, presents much original information concerning the Indian tribes and their customs. The text proper and title are printed in Latin, with a dedicatory poem to the Count of Gyllenberg in a quaint and original form of English, a portion of which reads,—

“What think, Your Lordship, maketh me bold,
To enter Your Palace?
Yeas, reason is, that I am told,
Of Father dear, allways:
How great to him Your Favour been,
When You in London stood,
And he by Sweds, about Christeen,
In Pennsilvani-Wood.
How Swedish Church is planted there,
Of Swedish Priests and Sheeps,
On both they Sides of de la Ware,
Among great many Heaps,
Of diverse Sects and Indians,
Is now, My Lord, the Same,
I am perswaded of my Brains,
To offer Your Great Name.”

In a more correct form of English is a commendatory letter to the author written by Andrew Hassel. The map, though bearing the name of a Swedish engraver, was probably copied from an English source as it carries the coat-of-arms of that nation. On p.27 is a curious woodcut depicting the Indian Manitou, or God. Neither Sabin nor Rich mentions this work.

The Humble Representation of the Council of Proprietors of the Eastern Division of New-Jersey [Signed and dated] By order of the Council of Proprietors of East-New-Jersey, Andrew Johnston, President, Perth-Amboy, August 20, 1754; [also, Proceedings] At a Council held at the Borough of Elizabeth, on Thursday, August the 22d, 1754 [with Report of the Committee, signed by Peter Kemble, August 23, 1754, relating to the foregoing Petition.] Pp. 47-59. Folio, new boards, uncut, blank portion of two corners torn and part of blank portion of last leaf missing, all neatly repaired. [New York: James Parker and W. Weyman, 1754]

AN EXCEEDINGLY INTERESTING AND SCARCE HISTORICAL ITEM RELATING TO THE BOUNDARY DISPUTE BETWEEN NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY. APPARENTLY UNKNOWN TO SABIN AND EVANS. The Petition is an answer to two communications sent to the Proprietors by the Governor of New Jersey, the first of which alludes to the Report of the Council of New York on "a Line agreed to, between Thomas Dongan, then (1686) Governor of New York, and the Governor of New Jersey, to run from a Place on Hudson's River, due West from Frederick Philipse's Lower Mills, and to extend thence, to the Southward of Great and Little Minisink, to . . . the West Branch of the Delaware . . . that that Line be agreed to and run, as a temporary Line between New York and New Jersey." The second relates to a Letter of the Governor of New York, in which he conceives "That the Forks of the Delaware, are the Ne plus Ultra of the Northern Boundary of New Jersey . . . and that all the Lands lying between them and the South End of Minisink Island, are still in the Disposal of the Crown." The petition is a long review of the second of these communications; the Report which accompanies it, is a review of the same, as well as an inquiry into subsequent Proceedings concerning the same "Line."

Although without imprint or printer's mark the typography shows the same characteristics as exhibited in the smaller font used by Parker in printing the official documents of the day.

In 1701, Budge sailed for Holland from the Bay of Campeche [Mexico] with a cargo of logwood, but meeting with adverse weather he was compelled to put in at the port of Amboy, New Jersey, for a time. Lord Cornbury, then Governor of the provinces of East Jersey and New York, meanwhile had heard of the predicament of this vessel and her valuable cargo, and before Budge could again set sail, the covetous Governor had sent an officer to seize both ship and freight, which was duly done and both condemned and sold. A year or so afterwards, the English court reversed the decision of the New Jersey tribunal and ordered restitution made to Budge. As late as 1708, nothing in this line had been accomplished, and the petition ends with the owner's appeal to the House of Commons.

[Burlington (?): Printed by Samuel Keimer, 1727 (?)]

AN EXCEEDINGLY INTERESTING TYPOGRAPHICAL ITEM. A contemporary manuscript inscription on back, dated 1727, places the printing of this Broadside at or about that time. The similarity of the type proves it to be from the font used by Keimer in the setting up of his "New Jersey Laws" at Burlington in 1728, while the paper shows the same watermark as that used in the "Laws."

About this period [1727] Keimer made a contract with the Legislature of New Jersey to print the money-bills for the Province, and according to Isaiah Thomas, sent Benjamin Franklin to Burlington to execute the work. As Hildeburn in his "Issues of the Pennsylvania Press" does not mention this Broadside and as the press-work shows the same characteristics as those in the New Jersey Laws of 1728, there is reason to believe that the above item was printed in Burlington at the time Franklin was printing the State bills, and that he materially assisted in the printing of this Broadside.

NEITHER SABIN, EVANS, NOR HILDEBURN APPEARS TO KNOW OF THIS ITEM.

173. BURLINGTON, NEW JERSEY, IMPRINT. Marmontel (Jean François). History of Belisarius, the Heroick and Humane Roman General. A New Translation from the French. 12mo, old sheep, lacks top portion of title, some lower edges uncut, portions of joints weak.

To which is annexed an Abstract of their Proceedings. 12mo, unbound, autograph of Uzal Ogden, II. on title.

Burlington: Printed by Isaac Collins, [1771]

This sermon was sold for the benefit of the fund. The printed note of thanks to Dr. Chandler is signed Jonathan Odell, Secretary. It is dedicated, with quite an elaboration of detail, to Governor William Franklin, and includes,—Copy of Charter of the corporation, and a register of names of its members,—Gov. Franklin, Gov. Tryon, Gov. Cadwallader Colden, Dr. Samuel Auchmuty, Benjamin Chew, James Duane, Francis Hopkinson, Roger Morris, Lord Stirling, and others of note.

Dr. Chandler was the author of the widely-circulated "Appeal" relative to the English church in America. For some years he was rector of St. John's church, Elizabethtown. In 1775, not being in sympathy with the majority of his countrymen in the matter of their separation from Great Britain, Dr. Chandler went to England.

This is an early imprint of Collins at Burlington, as he only commenced printing there sometime during 1770. [See No. 210.]

[Philadelphia: William Dunlap, 1758; Burlington: Isaac Neale, 1792-1797]

This library was one of the earliest established in the United States, it having been organized only four years later than the Society Library of New York City. Its incipency really began in November, 1757, with sixty members, each of whom agreed to pay ten shillings per annum for the library's support. John Reading was the means of securing its charter from the King. The first books were donated by its members and their friends. Its first location was the parlor of a private house. Joseph Bloomfield, Governor of New Jersey, 1801-1812, to whom this copy belonged, presented the library with a plot of ground upon which its first building was erected.

The full signature of Bloomfield is in four places in this volume, and most of the title and the first page of the supplied text are evidently in his autograph.

Laid in is a receipt for annual dues dated May 5, 1770, and signed by John Smith, Treasurer.

179. BURLINGTON, NEW JERSEY, IMPRINT. The Constitution of the New Jersey Society for Promoting the Abolition of Slavery. 8vo, new boards, uncut and unopened, original wrappers bound in.
Burlington: Isaac Neale, 1793

It was not until 1804 that the slavery agitation in New Jersey resulted in the Gradual Abolition Act. According to H. S. Cooley,—“it was the culmination of an organized movement to abolish slavery, which in 1786 led to the establishment of the New Jersey Abolition Society for that purpose.” This society was organized by the Quakers at Trenton, and afterwards spread to other cities, ever endeavoring to ameliorate the condition of the slaves. Neale printed in Burlington from about 1790 until 1796.

Davies.* 4to, blue boards, uncut.

London: T. Payne, 1798

Presents much serviceable information concerning the American Colonies, with anecdotes of Indians, list of trees, plants, &c., indigenous to the portions of the country visited. Passaic Falls the author calls "very extraordinary," and describes them to some extent. He, also, describes other portions of New Jersey, with sections of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, &c. Said to be Dr. Burnaby's own copy, with bookplate of the Baggrave Library, also his. [See the A. L. S., 1p. 4to, laid in, from the Museum Book Store relative to this statement.]

189. BURNET (WILLIAM—Colonial Governor of New York and New Jersey, 1720-1728). D. S., 1p. folio, New York, April 3, 1727. Countersigned by [Rich. Kearney]. Addressed to Samuel Bustill, Burlington, by [T.] Jackman begging him to publish it,—damaged by fire, preserved within gauze sheets, and hinged on heavy paper.

A Proclamation adjourning the General Assembly of New Jersey to the third Tuesday in April, 1727. As Samuel Keimer did not commence to print in Burlington until 1728, this document was printed probably by William Bradford at New York.

190. BURR (AARON—Vice-President of the United States). Senate subpoena for,—William Marshall, David and Edmund Randolph, John A. Chevalier, and others in the matter of the Impeachment of Samuel Chase, Justice of the Supreme Court. 1p. 4to, partly printed, Washington, December 24, 1804, with seals, damaged by fire, preserved within sheets of transparent gauze, hinged on heavy paper.

The written portions of this document are in the autographs of Burr, with signature, and Samuel A. Otis, Secretary of the United States Senate, with signature in 2 places. The report of the marshal who served the subpoena is also written on part of one side of document.

191. [BURR (AARON).] Strictures upon the Narrative of the Suppression by Col. Burr, of Wood's History of the Administration of John Adams. By "A Yeoman." 8vo, sewed. N.p.n.d.

192. BURR (REVEREND AARON). A Funeral Sermon, Preached at the Interment of his late Excellency, Jonathan Belcher, Governor of his Majesty's Province of New Jersey, &c. who departed this life at Elizabeth-Town, August 31, 1757, aged, 76. [Edited, with a Preface, by Caleb Smith.] Numerous mourning rules, on title, and elsewhere. 4to, boards, morocco back, writing on title, portions of a few margins missing, one side of the original wrappers bound in. New York: Printed and Sold by Hugh Gaine, 1757

SCARCE ISSUE. Unknown to Sabin, who notes an edition printed in New York without date,—probably an imperfect report only. Burr, the first President of Princeton University, then known as the College of New Jersey, was a very sick man at the time he preached this sermon, and the original manuscript thereof which appears to have been in a more or less chaotic condition because of this illness, has been here filled in and revised by Caleb Smith, a friend of Burr's and whose dedication to the relict of the deceased Governor is dated,—Newark Mountains, October 10, 1757,—about five weeks after the delivery of the sermon and two weeks after the death of the author. Burr seems to have had a premonition of his approaching demise during delivery of discourse, as there are a number of expressions to that effect contained therein.

193. [BURR (REVEREND AARON).] The Supreme Deity of our Lord Jesus Christ, maintained in a Letter to the Dedicator of Mr. Emlyn's Inquiry into the Scripture Account of Jesus Christ: Inscribed to the Reverend the Clergy of all Denominations in New England. Wherein Mr. Emlyn's Objections are fairly answered, and shown to have no Validity. 12mo, unbound, with a repagination in ink, spots on title.

Boston, New England: Printed by J. Draper, and sold at his Shop in Cornhill, 1757

Between Sabin and Evans there is mention of but three copies of this tract. The latter fully ascribes the authorship to Burr; the former is doubtful. The Mr. Emlyn named was the Reverend Thomas Emlyn, the first Unitarian minister in England, whose tract to which Burr replies was the means of Emlyn's being imprisoned for a year, or until he had paid a fine of £1,000.0.0. for blasphemy. That was in 1703.

194. BURR (REVEREND AARON). The Watchman's Answer to the Question, What of the Night, &c. A Sermon preached before the Synod of New York, convened at Newark, in New-Jersey, September 30, 1756. Third Edition. 12mo, new boards.

New York, Printed: Boston; Reprinted and sold by S. Kneeland. 1757

Speaks of the distressing conditions of the country, inferentially mentioning the French and Indian War, the proposed taxation of the Colonies, &c. In the paragraph before the last, Burr alludes to Washington, then about twenty-one years of age and rapidly climbing in public confidence and appreciation.

195. [BURR (REVEREND AARON).] ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT of Sermon, 16pp. 12mo, text taken apparently from First Corinthians, 30th verse. No place of delivery, no date, each leaf preserved within transparent gauze, mounted on paper, 8vo size, tied with silk ribbon.

[Circa 1760]

Sermons of this eminent divine IN THE ORIGINAL MANUSCRIPT are of great scarcity.

S., 4pp. 4to, including addressed portion, Springfield, October 6, 1778, to "The Honble. Mr. Geary, In Congress, Philadelphia," mentioning that General Mifflin has assigned him a large district for his Quartermaster's work, but that he intends to go through with it,—explains what he has to do with the sick in hospital and those who may be too ill to transport thence,—speaks of the activity of the enemy along the Passaic River and on Staten Island, &c.; A. L. S., as "D. Q. M. G.", 1p. small 4to, Springfield, November 16, 1778, stating that Jonathan Meeker, Jun'r. has been taken from other work to make cartridges; D. S., 2pp. folio, with 22 signatures, being An Inquisition taken on the Dead Body of the Rev. Mr. James Campbell, the 24th November, 1781, at Elizabeth Town before Isaac Woodruff, Mayor, [wherein] "one, James Morgan, not having the fear of God before his eyes, but being moved by the instigation of the Devil, did feloniously assault", &c. Includes signatures of,—Isaac Woodruff, Jonathan Dayton, Moses and Aaron Hatfield, Matthias Crane, Benjamin Winans, and others. Together, 3 pieces.
- "Parson" Caldwell did great things toward the defense of Springfield in 1780, including the furnishing of hymn-books to the soldiers to be used as wadding, exhorting them as he did so to "Put Watts into them, boys." His wife, a daughter of John Ogden of Newark, was shot in cold blood by one of the British militiamen while she was at her devotions. Caldwell's own death occurred a little over a year later, he being shot by an American sentinel named Morgan, who was hung for the deed. [See folio document accompanying.] This was so wanton a murder that many believed the assassin had been bribed by the enemy to commit it. Morgan was taken to church previous to his execution on January 29, 1782, where he listened to a sermon by the Rev. Jonathan Elmer from the text,—"O, do not this abominable thing which I hate," after which the murderer was taken out and swung upon the gallows.

In this Appeal are given the reasons for sending bishops to America, the plan on which it was proposed to send them, &c. This work was one of many written by various clergymen and others during the famous American Episcopate Controversy which raged during the years 1767-1774, and which, by many, has been considered one of the primal causes of the American Revolutionary War. The Colonists led by Chauncy of Boston and Livingston of New York opposed the proposition with the utmost energy as another encroachment upon American liberty. [See No. 174.]

Chatham: Printed by Shepard Kollock, 1779-1780

The sermon first-noted refers to the status of the Revolutionary War then in progress, and contains numerous comments on slavery conditions relative to which the preacher submits a plan for emancipating slaves which he adds to his discourse as a "P.S." Both pamphlets have names written on titles, one being that of Uzal Ogden, the celebrated divine of Newark.

Kollock, the printer, while at Chatham [1779-1783] issued about fifteen items from his press. It may have been owing to the impossibility of securing paper at various periods that he did not issue more. The following note is printed on the title of the first-mentioned sermon:—"N.B. The Scarcity of Paper has prevented the printing this Sermon till this time: But 'tis thought it may not yet be unseasonable."

Together, 7 numbers, Nos. 1-5, inclusive, bound in 1 vol. 8vo, half leather, printed by Cobbett in New York; No. 6, stitched, unbound, printed in London; No. VII, loose in wrappers, no place, no date.

A COMPLETE SET OF SIX NUMBERS, AS ABOVE, IS VERY UNCOMMON. Duyckinck believed there were but four numbers in set; the Brinley sale contained but three numbers; most auction sales of this periodical feature a single copy, or perhaps two. In this sale, set is complete comprising the entire six numbers of the first volume,—or, 309pp.

Accompanying the set is the EXCEEDINGLY SCARCE FIRST NUMBER of the Republican Rush-Light, unknown to Sabin, and apparently never before offered at auction in this country. Said to have been issued in Philadelphia, and intended as the first number in Volume II. of the Rush-Light, "to be," in the words of the author—"truly Republican, and to point out what is the true policy of America to pursue in her future conduct, both with respect to foreign nations, and in her domestic concerns," &c.

Most of the Rush-Light contains caustic material relating to Dr. Benjamin Rush, the celebrated Philadelphia physician who advocated the cure of yellow fever and other maladies by bleeding, and who was awarded a verdict against Cobbett of about $8,000.00 for his slanderous attacks upon him. The Rush-Light was started largely in a spirit of revenge by Cobbett on that account. In No. 5 is the Priestly letter; in No. 6 the Addresses to the people of England and also of America.

An uncommon pamphlet upon the importance of teaching the American colonists how to manufacture Bar-Iron, and of its importation by Great Britain, free of duty, from the colonies. Among the objections to this plan are,—(1) "If the Americans are permitted and taught the Way to make Bar-Iron, they will not stop there, but will proceed to manufacture it in all its branches . . . and so, from becoming our useful customers, will soon become our most dangerous Rivals;" (2) "If the Americans are suffered to import their Iron duty-free, all the English Furnaces and Forges must stand still," &c.

Cornbury, probably the worst Governor New York ever had, was universally detested and publicly abhorred, in spite of his cousinship to Good Queen Anne. His official appointments were oftener as not on a level with his official actions,—scandalous. In the appointment here noted of water-bailiff, an officer in port towns for the searching of vessels, examining the condition of fish, and protecting generally the waters of the ports,—there was very likely an opportunity to add to Cornbury's "graft," which he was not slow to embrace.

Evidently, these are Bills that came up before the Assembly of the State in 1798, of which body, Edgar was a member.

The Cowell above-noted was a brother of the Rev. David Cowell long pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Trenton, and was, originally, a blacksmith with a specialty of gun-and-locksmithing. He was of great service to the American troops in the neighborhood of Trenton during the Revolution by repairing their guns with the assistance of all the tradesmen that he could get together and that could do the work. From 1765 to 1775 Cowell acquired vast tracts of land in West Jersey and in 1782-1784 became a Proprietor. Little, apparently, is known concerning Colonel Coxe's son, whose signature is appended to the deeds of 1761 and 1764, except that he was a landed proprietor in West Jersey as were his forebears. It was from Branford, Conn., that the first settlers of Newark, New Jersey, came, paying for the ancient site of the city,—“£130., New England currency, 12 Indian blankets, and 12 Indian guns.” Although Daniel Dod died not long previous to the founding of Newark, his immediate family had received a grant of land there in the vicinity of Bridge street. Later many of his descendants settled around the town of Watsessing, where the name Dodd is much in evidence at this period.

Together, 2 pieces.

Duane became the editor of the Philadelphia Aurora in 1795 and soon made it the leading organ of the Democratic party. Jefferson attributed his election to the Presidency to the support of Duane and his paper.

Incorporates much interesting matter about the failure to deliver grain for the troops in which he appears to have been checkmated by others.

The Second Magazine published in Newark and a weekly issue published by John H. Williams “for the proprietors.” Upon the completion of this volume, number 52, February 9, 1779, the publication was discontinued, the proprietors say, for, “the want of sufficient subscription, and literary assistance.” In the first number it is stated, that, “this is the only undertaking of the kind existing within the State of New Jersey.”

Burlington: Printed and Sold by Isaac Collins, 1775; [Trenton circa 1787]

This edition is apparently a reprint of the author’s “The American Instructor.” Neither Sabin nor Evans mentions this issue. Although the title bears imprint “Burlington, 1775,” the work is in all probability some of Collins’s later presswork, having been executed after his removal to Trenton. Several statements throughout tend to prove that this volume could not have been finished at the time stated, there being references to a Treaty of Peace signed at Paris in 1783, several letters are dated 1782, Ledger Accounts are dated 1786-1787 and a reference is made to a new state of “Franklin” formed of several counties of North Carolina. Bound in at end is Fenning’s “Universal Spelling-Book.” London [circa 1781]. With woodcuts.

VOLUME I ONLY OF AN EXCEEDINGLY SCARCE WORK ON THE BAPTISTS OF AMERICA, OF WHICH BUT TWO VOLUMES [VOLUME SECOND ISSUED IN 1792] WERE PUBLISHED INSTEAD OF TWELVE AS ANTICIPATED BY THE AUTHOR.

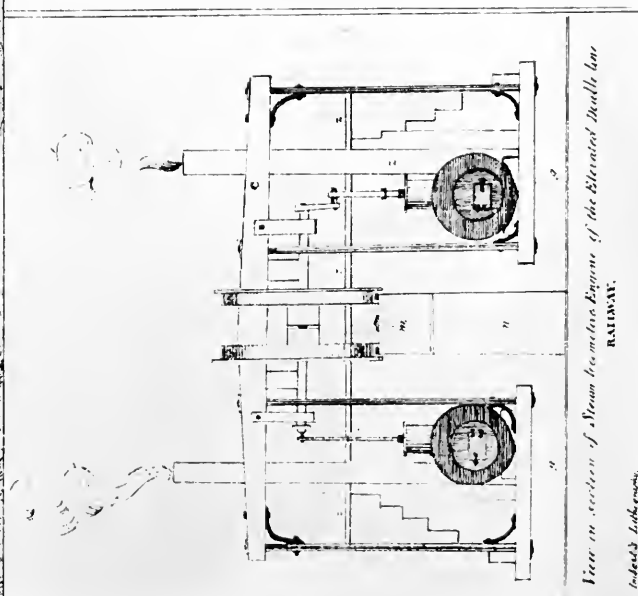

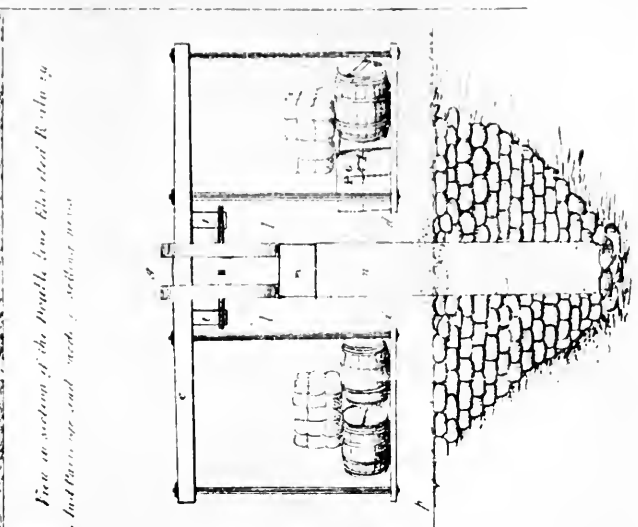

One of the very few appearances at auction of both the volumes in recent years was at the Pennypacker Sale of eight or nine seasons ago. Contains 134pp. including the 2pp. of Errata which Sabin, however, does not mention. Present volume comprises the history of the Baptists in Pennsylvania. Contents of the remaining volume published relate to the Baptists of New Jersey.

Edwards was bred a churchman and began his ministry in Ireland when but sixteen years of age. He came to America [Philadelphia] in 1761, and is, practically, the first historian of Pennsylvania. He presents details concerning the Firstday, Keithian, Seventhday, Tuncker, and Mennonite Baptists, giving as his reason for thus doing (1) a desire to know the American Baptists,—(2) an equal desire to make them known one to another,—(3) a solicitude to unite them together

361. ELEVATED RAILROAD. Sullivan (John L.). Mr. Sullivan's Description of a Cheap, Durable Rail Road, and certain Routes, in the States of New York and New Jersey. With early lithographic view by Imbert, showing an Elevated Double line Railway, propelled by horsepower, the section of Steam locomotive Engine of the Elevated Double line Railway and a sectional view of the Elevated Railway showing mode of setting posts. 22pp. 8vo, wrappers.

[N.p., December 17, 1827]

One of the earliest plans for an elevated railroad in America. The principle of this invention consisted of an elevated railway having two lines of rail in one track for two wheels abreast, the carriage being constructed to carry its load dependent on each side, principally below the level of the axles.

The author, in combating the influences behind the scheme for building the Delaware and Raritan Canal, devised this method of transportation and applies his theory in connection with a proposed railroad through New Jersey, from the Hudson to the Susquehanna through Orange and Sussex Counties showing how it may be combined with the State Road. In 1814, Sullivan invented a steam towboat, for which he received a patent in preference to Robert Fulton, who applied for it at the same time.

403. FRANKLIN (WILLIAM—Son of Benjamin Franklin, the last Royal governor of New Jersey). A. L. S., 2pp. 4to, Elizabeth Town, April 7, 1757. To "My dearest Betsy," preserved between sheets of transparent gauze, and hinged on heavy paper.

Letter is probably to Miss Elizabeth Downes, whom he married later, and was written on his way from Trenton to New York, at which latter point he was to meet his father, Benjamin Franklin, and sail for England.

"Our Horses are baiting, which gives me a few spare Moments. I seize them to let my Charmer know of my Welfare. We expected to have arriv'd at New York yesterday, but the extreme Badness of the Roads prevented our getting farther than Woodbridge. Our Chaise Horses tir'd before we reached Brunswick, which oblig'd us to leave them and the Carriage behind, and to come Forward on Horseback. We shall, however, God willing, this Day reach the Place of Embarkation.

Every Morning since our Departure has had a lowering Aspect, but before Noon the Clouds have dispersed, the Sun has Shone, and the Remainder of the Day has prov'd most delightfully agreeable. The Morning of our Love, my dear Betsy, has likewise been, and is still overcast, threat'ning a wrecking Storm; who knows but kind Heaven may graciously permit a clearing Sun to scatter these Clouds of Difficulties which hang over us, and afford a Noon and Evening of Life calm and serene . . .

An Invitation from Gov. Belcher to Dinner cuts me shorter than I intended. That every Blessing may attend you is the ardent Prayer of, Dear Betsy, Your most affectionate, W. Franklin."

404. FRANKLIN (WILLIAM). A. L. S., 2pp. 4to, including addressed portion. [London] September 4, 1762. To "William Strahan, Printer, in New Street." With portion of wax seal.

Strahan was a friend of Ben Franklin in London. The writer had just about secured, through Lord Fairfax, his appointment as Governor of New Jersey. Note what Franklin says about "not yet kiss'd hands."

"Your Friend is this Moment arriv'd at the Land of Matrimony . . . I know you and good Mrs. Strahan will sympathize with Mrs. Franklin (for so I am now so happy as to call her) and me in the unbounded Joy this long wish'd for event occasions. If you mention it in this Evening's "Chronicle," don't stile me Excellency, as I think it not quite so proper as I have not yet kiss'd Hands, being prevented yesterday by the Cambridge Address . . . Suppose it was mentioned Something in the following Manner: 'This Morning was married at St. George's Church, Hanover Square, William Franklin, Esq., the new appointed Governor of New Jersey, to Miss Elizabeth Downes of St. James Street.'"

464. HAMILTON (ALEXANDER—Eminent American Statesman, Secretary of the Treasury of the United States). A. L. S., 2pp. 4to, with addressed portion, Head Quarters Galloways in the Clove, July 21, 1777. To Colonel Bland of the Lighthorse, small tear in folds, destroying a few letters on first page.

AN IMPORTANT REVOLUTIONARY LETTER. The close of the winter campaign of 1775-1776, was marked by a series of movements, which turned the eastern part of New Jersey into a military chess-board. While Washington, under a misapprehension, was preparing in the North for the invasion of an imaginary foe, the enemy was sailing down the Jersey coast for an attack on Philadelphia. Upon learning of their probable destination, express riders and couriers hastened to various commanders with letters of instructions. The present letter was sent to Colonel Bland by General Washington, through the hand of Alexander Hamilton, signed by the latter as Alde-de-Camp.

"The intelligence, on which the order given you to join this army was founded, proving not to be as was expected, His Excellency desires you to return to your old station and there remain till further orders. He thinks it not improbable the enemy may take it into their heads to make some incursion into the Jerseys to plunder and distress the inhabitants, or perhaps even to endeavor to destroy our stores at Morris Town. This will be worthy of your attention and should it happen, you will give all the assistance in your power to the force which is or may be collected to oppose them.

Use every expedient, you can think of, to gain the exactest intelligence possible, of the movements of the enemy.—Our situation and theirs are such that it is extrem(ely) difficult to know what they are about (an)d we are rather in the dark with resp(ect) to it . . ."

465. HAMILTON (ALEXANDER). [Williams (John).] The Hamiltoniad: or, an Extinguisher for the Royal Faction of New England. With Copious Notes, Illustrative, Biographical, Philosophical, Critical, Admonitory and Political; Being Intended as a High-Heeled Shoe for All Limping Republicans. By Anthony Pasquin. 8vo, original boards, joints weak, a number of leaves age-stained.

[Boston]: Sold for the Author, price 31 cents, [1804]

Complete, including the Third Canto, not always found with the work. Most of the copies of this edition were destroyed by Hamilton's friends. Contains in the prose notes much of the correspondence between Hamilton and Burr.

The author was an expatriated Englishman judicially declared in his own country in 1797 to be "a common libeller." His "dedication" thus begins:—"To perpetuate the brutal infamy of John Park, M. D. a Galenical Excescence: Who is the vile and crawling minion of the Essex Junto, that has been laboring to destroy the federal fabric of our Republican Constitution, and introduce a monarchical despotism upon its ruins . . . He is the pensioned scavenger and servile dog of the Royal Faction of New England," &c.

466. HAMILTON (ALEXANDER). A. L. S., 1p. 4to, n.p.n.d. To Colonel Hughes, slight tear in former fold, destroying two letters; neatly protected by transparent gauze.

Written to Colonel, afterward General James Miles Hughes,—"Mrs. Hamilton begs me to assure you how much she is indebted to you for your obliging offer — She requests the favour of you to let the waggon, on its way to Albany, call upon a certain duchm(an) a tavern keeper at Rynbeck for some apples and cyder purchased by him for General Schuyler . . . If you do not leave this side of the river tomorrow. We shall be happy to see you at dinner."

Newport, Rhode Island: Reprinted and Sold by S. Southwick, 1774
 RARE. Unknown to Sabin who mentions only the Boston, 1774, edition and the second edition, New Haven, without date. Evans cites this edition, but seems to have known of the John Carter Brown copy only. Samuel Adams, whose name occurs once or twice in the Essay, is supposed to have shared in its authorship. In 1775 an attempt was made by the British to arrest both these Americans, which fact practically precipitated the Battle of Lexington. In General Gage's proclamation of pardon to all rebels, Hancock and Adams were excepted, as their offences "are of too flagitious a nature to admit of any other consideration than that of condign punishment."

If this should be the case, why should Virginia be outstripped by Pennsylvania and Maryland? Would it not contribute to the prosperity of Virginia if . . . she should improve her roads and extend her navigation so as to make James River the constant channel of communication between the Atlantic and Mississippi?*" colored. 12mo, original printed boards, written paper label on back, uncut. New York, 1820

AN UNCOMMON WORK OF WHICH, APPARENTLY, THERE IS NO AUCTION-RECORD OF SALE. Akerly, the author, was one of the Vice Presidents of the New York Lyceum of which the widely-known Dr. Mitchell was the President. The work is the printed form of the original manuscript as it was read by the author before the Lyceum members during August, 1819. Contains the copyright notice on separate slip pasted on the verso of title. Akerly made his investigations on foot, and his information is from acute personal observation chiefly. His plan of the section treated embraces an extent of one hundred miles,—thirty, south of New York, and seventy, north. What Akerly says relative to the geological formation of this territory is exceedingly interesting and valuable. Amongst much other information furnished is that concerning the discovery of a bed of decomposed rock in the neighborhood of Hellgate, which was known as the kaolin of the Chinese, from which their best porcelain is made.

Letter is an echo of the startling William Duer failure of four years previous which gave New York its first financial panic. Herein Mr. Livingston states that Mr. Duer desires a "letter of credit for a few years,"—that he has, however, not made personal application direct to him, "as he considers me his enemy," but through Colonel [Alexander] Hamilton, &c. Mr. Livingston dropped the "Henry" from his name soon after the British evacuation of New York.

566. LIVINGSTON (WILLIAM—Another son of Governor Livingston). A. L. S., 3pp. folio, including addressed portion, Eliz:Town, December 11, 1790, to Governor William Patterson, Governor Livingston's successor, enclosing an inscription for his father's tomb, 2pp. folio; A. L. S., 3pp. folio, Eliz:Town, June 11, 1791, to Governor Patterson, on private matters, chiefly regarding, "*my many indiscretions under your Excellency's own eye, and although they were the more indecent on this very account, and have given me much chagrin . . . Single sheet, 8vo. N.P. [Woodbridge] 1793
Previous to 1700, the Courts of the County of Middlesex had been held at Woodbridge, New Brunswick, and Piscataway. For a lengthy period after 1708, the Courts were held at Perth Amboy only, at which town there was a Court House and Jail built especially for the law's requirements. It would seem that from 1783 the Courts had been convened at New Brunswick in the "Barracks" built by the British during the Revolution, and which were destroyed by fire in 1795.

The petition, which is signed by fifty-three citizens of Perth-Amboy, complains of the frauds in the election for the County Court House, claiming that the manner of appointing the election inspectors put it in the power of the inhabitants of New Brunswick to choose such inspectors as were known to be in their interest, by which means the election was conducted in an unfair manner, resulting in the fraudulent changing of ballots so as to produce a decision in favor of New Brunswick. After citing the above frauds and the subsequent court proceedings, the subscribers petition the Assembly for a new election. UNKNOWN TO SABIN.

London: Printed; and sold by Richardson and Urquhart, &c., 1783

SECOND AND BEST EDITION WITH THE SCARCE HALF-TITLE AND THE APPENDIX NOT IN THE ORIGINAL EDITION OF THE YEAR PREVIOUS. Also includes about 50pp. of "interleaves," a dozen of them containing valuable historical data upon Moody and his statements written in the autograph of Mr. Nelson and another.

Moody seems to have been a peaceful farmer of New Jersey who, at the commencement of the Revolution, was endeavoring to remain loyal to the king and at the same time to act as neutral as possible. Such a stand, however, only caused him in the end to become an active worker against the Americans,—in a predatory way, prowling around camps, noting plans, attacking private citizens, &c. He annoyed Washington by seizing dispatches, and once came near capturing William Livingston, while Governor of New Jersey. Rewards were frequently offered for Moody's apprehension, and he was once or twice captured and about to be hung as a spy, but escaped each time. Eventually he was made a prisoner by General Wayne and incarcerated at West Point, where, notwithstanding rigorous confinement, he broke guard in a few months and renewed his predatory efforts as before. He died a natural death in 1809.

Bushnell states that Moody received but poor compensation for his services to the British. This was probably the chief reason for the publication of his Narrative, from the sale of which he believed he might be able to recoup much of his general loss sustained during the war. Owing to the "incredulity with which the Narrative was received, he issued in 1783 a second edition much enlarged to which he added corroborative testimony,"—from Governor Franklin, General Cortland Skinner, Major Beckwith, and others.

UNIQUE COPY, AND PROBABLY THE ONE NOTED IN VOLUME II, PAGE 99, OF FRANCIS B. LEE'S,—"NEW JERSEY AS COLONY AND STATE," AS THE COPY CONTAINING MOODY'S MANUSCRIPT ANNOTATIONS POSSESSED BY MR. NELSON.

S.;—John Nelson, General in the American Revolution, Member of the Continental Congress; Samuel Nelson, American jurist, Chief-Justice of New York for eight years; John Nelson, relative of Sir Thomas Temple; Roger Nelson, General in the American Revolution; Thomas Nelson, Signer; Paschal Nelson; and others.

730. NEW ALBION PROVINCE. [Plantaganet (Beauchamp).] A Description of the Province of New Albion. And a Direction for Adventurers with small stock to get two for one, and good land freely . . . And a former Description reprinted of the healthiest, pleasantest, and richest Plantation of New Albion in North Virginia, proved by thirteen witnesses. 8vo, half blue levant morocco. Printed in the Year 1648 [Reprinted by P. Force, Washington, 1837]

Force's reprint of one of the rarest tracts relating to America. Includes the scarce brief description signed by Captain Brown, Captain Clayborn, and eleven others, together with Robert Evelyn's letter.

New Jersey is here portrayed as a most advantageous home for emigrants. It is likened unto Lombardy with a "rich, fat soil . . . and partaketh of the healthiest aire," &c. Not a word is said concerning that most notorious product of New Jersey,—its mosquitoes. The extent of territory comprised in the Province of New Albion is none too definitely described in these seductive word-paintings. That they were designed to act as bait for unwary would-be settlers, seems only too apparent.

731. NEW ALBION PROVINCE. Penington (John). An Examination of Beauchamp Plantagenet's Description of the Province of New Albion. 8vo, half morocco. Philadelphia, 1840

Penington places no particular credence in this wonderful description, or series of descriptions, particularly where New Albion is pictured as a somewhat mythical "palatinate" the extent of which is thus represented:—"Our south bound is Maryland north bounds, and beginning at Asquats on the Southermost, or first Cape of Delaware Bay . . . through Chisapeack Bay to Pascatway, including the Falls of Pawto-mecke . . . being three hundred miles due west, and thence northward to the head of Hudson's river fifty leagues," &c.

The first seven numbers were issued by Isaac Harrington at the Office of the Poughkeepsie Journal. In number seven, he announces that with the assistance of Sarah E. Harrington, they are about to open a Seminary in Newark, New Jersey, for Young Ladies. Newark: Published for the Compiler at the Office of the Newark Daily Advertiser, 1835

Newark's FIRST DIRECTORY, with a sketch of the city embodying much of interest and historical significance. Comprises about 3200 names, many being of well-known residents of eighty years ago, a large proportion of whose descendants are still living and flourishing in the Newark of the present. The population in 1835 was about 18,000 inhabitants, including Irish, 6000; Germans, 300; English and Scotch, 1000; and "359 free people of color." It is stated that only 600 copies were printed of this Directory.

Newark: Printed by John Woods, 1793

This eloquent discourse received a vote of thanks signed by the vice-president of the Patriotic Society, Reverend Uzal Ogden, and from the Civil and Military members of the community who heard it. The author began his preaching in Newark as early as 1759, but owing to his activities for the Government and his church elsewhere, he did not settle down to permanent preaching in Newark until 1781, where he remained until his death in 1807. He was one of the framers of the constitution of the Presbyterian church in this country and a trustee of Princeton for thirty-five years. It was in Macwhorter's home in Newark that Aaron Burr, Vice President of the United States, was born.

The first-named is presentation copy from the author to Joseph Rogers, with autograph inscription on verso of title. Both discourses dwell upon the necessity of preparedness for war in this country. They consider, among other things,—the standing army, the militia, the condition of forts, &c. and although written so many years ago, are still pertinent contributions on the subject brought to the fore by the present European catastrophe. Here are two excerpts from the above:—"While we oppose standing armies . . . it is not to be denied that it may be necessary . . . to appoint a number of the inhabitants, who shall be particularly disciplined, that there may be a constitutional security for the public peace;"—"A nation despicable by its weakness, forfeits even the privilege of being neutral."

Apparently the edition of 1792, 28pp., place of printing unknown; "Court of Kings Bench,—The King versus Williams for publishing Tom Paine's 'Age of Reason,' incorporating Erskine's speech for the prosecution;" Fourth of July Oration, Newark, 1794, by Alexander Macwhorter, the Newark Presbyterian divine. CHOICE COPY WITH THE SCARCE FOLDING MAP, REMOUNTED ON LINEN, AND NINE APPENDICES, HALF-TITLE, AND LEAF OF ERRATA.

Although the Petition is dated 1775, it could not have been printed by Kollock in New York before 1783-1784, as he did not commence to print in that city until shortly after its evacuation by the British. Volume includes printed copies of,—the famous Tripartite Deed; Lawrence's Commission for running the Quintipartite line of division; petition to Governor Burnet in 1725 regarding the Boundary line as specified in the Quintipartite indentures; list of some of the Proprietors of West Jersey headed by William Penn, Edward Byllynge, Isaac Sharp, and others; petition to the Legislature in 1784 against the Keith and Lawrence Boundary Line, signed by John Stevens, President of the Council of Proprietors of the Eastern Division of New Jersey; &c.

776. NEW JERSEY. An Address, from the Council of Proprietors of the Western Division of New Jersey, to the Occupiers of Lands within the Angle. To which are added, Remarks on the said Addresses. By Aristides. 16mo, original wrappers, most of the corners turned.

Printed in the United States of America [Burlington] 1795

Address is dated Burlington, May 7, 1795, and the Remarks, New Jersey, July 7, 1795. The question of this Jersey boundary line was not settled for at least one hundred years, beyond the location of the terminal points thereof. In 1686 the East and West Jersey governments agreed to arbitrate in the matter after the failure of Keith, surveyor of East Jersey, to locate the line according to the Quintipartite deed of 1676. Keith made the line run from Raritan to Egg Harbor which caused much protest to be made by the inhabitants of West Jersey, who claimed that East Jersey was given too much territory. It was not until 1718 that the Legislature established the line.

(1) A curious little book on temperance edited by one whose name is undoubtedly a pseudonym, and published at a place the true appellation of which is also disguised, but is either Newark or Trenton, very likely; (2) An early New Jersey tale, name of author not given, but probably written by the publisher, Burnett; (3) The First Perth Amboy Directory, containing about 1500 names and numerous advertisements. As very few of the houses were then numbered, the compiler adopted the Philadelphia system in order to simplify the work. Incorporates the names of eight churches and one Public School in which latter there were 650 scholars enrolled.

Small folio, rebound in full brown morocco,—although the inner margins of this volume have been badly damaged by fire, the binder has most skillfully repaired each leaf and protected both sides of the same with transparent gauze, thus preserving the entire text intact, in permanent form, and at the same time allowing an unobstructed view of the text, which though somewhat blackened, has been made wholly legible, only a few letters requiring the aide of a glass in order to decipher them.

Petition to the Legislature of New-Jersey, Respecting Steam-Boats; with the Laws of the States of New-York and New-Jersey, and Affidavits of Persons respecting the Improvements said to be made by Daniel Dod and Others, on the Machinery of R. Fulton. 8vo, half leather. New York: Pelsue & Gould, 1814

AN ASSUREDLY RARE WORK UPON THE EARLY STEAMBOAT MONOPOLY ON THE WATERS AROUND NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY in which Robert Fulton, John R. and Robert J. Livingston, John Stevens, John Fitch, James Rumsey, Aaron Ogden, and others took prominent parts.

Up to 1811-1812 Fulton and Livingston had the call on the steamboat business in this vicinity and held it despite the ponderous fulminations of the New Jersey Legislature. In 1813, however, Aaron Ogden, Governor of New Jersey, established a ferry in opposition to that plying between New York City and Paulus Hook [Jersey City] then controlled by Fulton and his associates. Ogden had a single boat only called the Seahorse; his rivals had two,—the Jersey and York, all built upon the order of the modern catamaran. Ogden's one boat was more improved and speedier than the other two boats, and he cut materially into the business of the Fulton combine on this account, and perhaps for the other reason that his ferry plied between New York City and Elizabethtown Point, practically the same route as that of the opposition.

This ferry run by Ogden, with his partner, Dod, had extensive privileges conferred upon it by the New Jersey Legislature, which, notwithstanding, could not prevent the establishment of still another rival line covering the same route, among the several captains of which was the famous "Commodore" Vanderbilt, whose later endeavors with his independent perlauger became the basis of the vast Vanderbilt fortune of to-day.

In the resultant litigation, most of it was borne by Ogden, and, though eventually making terms with the Fulton-Livingston opposition, he made them all too late to prevent the loss of both his money and his life.

820. NEW JERSEY AND NEW YORK STEAMBOAT MONOPOLY. An Act concerning Steam Boats. (State of New Jersey). 8vo, half leather.

N.p. n.d. circa New York, 1814

This Act, 6pp., is incorporated in the volume preceding, and refers to the assignment by Gideon Hill Wells, Trenton, the administrator of John Fitch, of the "right, title, and interest" of the steamboat improvements of Fitch to Aaron Ogden and Daniel Dod, and the conferring by the Legislature of New Jersey upon these two of "the exclusive right and privilege of navigating the waters of this State," &c. Signed by James Linn, Secretary of the State of New Jersey, November 3, 1813.

821. NEW JERSEY AND NEW YORK STEAMBOAT MONOPOLY. Trenton: Printed for the Author, 1815

This famous argument lasted a number of days and was participated in by Aaron Ogden; Joseph Hopkinson, second son of Francis Hopkinson, signer, a highly distinguished lawyer, the attorney for Dr. Rush in his slander-suit against Cobbett in 1800, and the defender of Judge Chase before the United States Senate in 1805; Samuel L. Southard, a brilliant graduate of Princeton, class of 1804, among his comrades being J. R. Ingersoll, of Philadelphia, and Theodore Frelinghuysen, of Newark; and last, but far from least, Thomas Addis Emmet, the Irish patriot, elder brother of Robert Emmet, and Attorney-General of New York State at this period.

Cambridge: Hilliard and Metcalf, 1821

Author was a son of James Sullivan, Governor of Massachusetts, a civil engineer of note, the first to report the practicability of a canal across the Alleghany mountains,—planned one of the earliest elevated railroads in America. [See No. 361.] This pamphlet contains a proposition for establishing a steamboat line, passenger and freight, between the cities of New York and Providence, and New York and Albany, and is published for the benefit of the Massachusetts General Hospital. Auto-graphed on title,—"Mr. C. Cushing," probably Caleb Cushing, United States Attorney-General under President Pierce, Minister to Spain, &c.

824. NEW JERSEY AND NEW YORK STEAMBOAT MONOPOLY. Sullivan (John L.). Answer of Mr. Sullivan, to the Letter and Mis-Statements of the Hon. Cadwallader D. Colden, as the Advocate of the Monopoly of Steam and Fire in Navigating the Rivers, Coasts, and Lakes of New York. 8vo, stitched, unbound.

Troy: William S. Parker, 1823

The Colden here noted was the grandson of the famous Cadwallader Colden, an intimate friend of Robert Fulton and supported by spoken and written word Fulton's claims to all the steamboat rights awarded him. Sullivan takes issue with Colden in this brochure, and shows the unconstitutionality of the monopoly demonstrated, the injurious effects of it on the community exposed, &c. Second Edition, with the Appendix in which is presented a summary history of the steamboat monopoly herein attacked.

825. NEW JERSEY AND NEW YORK STEAMBOAT MONOPOLY. VARICK (RICHARD—Revolutionary officer, First Aide-de-Camp to General Benedict Arnold, Mayor of New York, 1791-1801). A. L. S. 2pp. 4to, with addressed portion, Jersey, May 1, 1825, to Elias E. Boudinot, Newark, N. J.

"I am this Day informed that underhanded Measures are taking to effect a Change in the Direction of the Steam Boat Ferry Company at the coming Elections. I have heard of a great Deal of Dissatisfaction and Uproar about discontinuing the Commutation plan and whether that or any other Measure has prompted persons to attempt a Change in the Direction, I know not. As far as I am personally concerned I do not regard these Measures; but I fear there is a Judas among us."

826. NEW LONDON, CONNECTICUT, IMPRINT. Beckwith (George). Visible Saints Lawful Right to Communion in Christian Sacraments, Vindicated. (In Way of Answer to a Sermon entitled "Christian Baptism" delivered at Hanover, New Jersey, November 4, 1764, by the Rev. Jacob Green). In a Letter to a Friend. 12mo, unbound, uncut, name on title.

New London: Printed by Timothy Green, 1769

This is Beckwith's reply to Green's sermon, a copy of which latter may be found under No. 1268 of this catalogue. Green, the printer, was a grand-nephew of Bartholomew Green, and began his printing in Boston, removing in 1752 to New London, where he succeeded his father.

827. NEW NETHERLANDS. Nova Belgica et Anglia Nova. Engraved on copper and colored. Size 15½ by 30 inches, with good margins,—mounted. [Amsterdam, 1650?]

A curious Map, with text on reverse side. Probably from Jansson's Atlas published in 1640-50. New York is laid down as "Niev Nederlandt" and the New England States as "Niev Engeland"; there is a great lake called "Lacus Irocoisiensis" between these two sections, which is probably intended for Lake George. New York City is laid down as "Manatthans."

But alas! not a single resident of New Jersey came forward to disprove the accuracy of that statement.*"

During the years from 1824 to 1832, Paterson nearly doubled in population and manufactures.

Dr. Fisher, who took this Census, came from Morristown to Paterson. He was a man of remarkable energy, manifested a deep interest in everything connected with the welfare of the city, and was foremost in all enterprises for its advancement. His church was the first in which services were held in the English language. His Census is even now frequently referred to for facts and figures for use in certain computations.

THE FIRST OFFICIAL DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES by the Society of Friends [Quakers] opposing the Continental Congress in their Usurpation of power and authority. Contains the following declaration,—“We . . . publicly to declare against every usurpation of power and authority, in opposition to the laws and government, and against all combinations, insurrections, conspiracies, and illegal assemblies: and as we are restrained from them by the conscientious discharge of our duty to almighty God, ‘by whom kings reign, and princes decree justice,’ we hope through his assistance and favour, to be enabled to maintain our testimony against requisitions which may be made against us, inconsistent with our religious principles, and the fidelity we owe to the king and his government.” During the earlier days of the Revolution, the Quakers, owing to their religious scruples, sided with the mother country against the Colonies, many of them going so far as to intrigue against the orders of the Continental Congress. Among the more conspicuous members of the order who conspired against the Independence of America, were,—James Pemberton and his brother John, who, together with other leading Quakers of Philadelphia, were arrested for their secret actions and exiled to Virginia.

A Religious concern for our friends and fellow subjects of every denomination, and more especially for those of all ranks, who, in the present commotions, are engaged in publick employments and stations, induces us earnestly to beseech every individual in the most solemn manner, to consider the end and tendency of the measures they are promoting; and on the most impartial enquiry into the state of their minds, carefully to examine whether they are acting in the fear of God, and in conformity to the precepts and doctrine of our Lord Jesus Christ, whom we profess to believe in, and that by him alone we expect to be saved from our sins.

1019. PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY, IMPRINT. Witherspoon (John). Christian Magnanimity. A Sermon preached at Princeton, September, 1775, the Sabbath preceding the Annual Commencement; to which is Added an Address to the Senior Class, by John Witherspoon, President of the College of New Jersey. 8vo, unbound, stitched, uncut, name and markings on title and final leaf, pages age-stained.

Princeton: Printed by James Tod, 1787

The author, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was president of Princeton from 1768 to 1794, and his uncompromising attitude in favor of separation from the parent country greatly aided William Livingston, Governor, in his struggle to sustain the cause of Independence in New Jersey. This attitude at the same time caused Jonathan Odell, a fellow preacher and loyalist poet of the Revolution, no end of uneasiness, inasmuch that in his verse he bitterly characterized the sapient and patriotic Dr. Witherspoon.

Your assured loving friend. Ph. Carteret."* 7pp. folio, in half morocco binding, somewhat smoke-stained, lower corners partly damaged by fire, defacing some of the end letters on inner margins and destroying a few words in lower corners; each leaf repaired and protected by transparent gauze, thus preserving in a perfectly legible form most of the original text. [Elizabethtown, 1681]

AN UNKNOWN AND APPARENTLY FORGOTTEN DOCUMENT OF THE GREATEST HISTORICAL INTEREST AND OF EXCESSIVE RARITY, relating to the early Proprietary Government of the Province of New Jersey and the Debates in the General Assembly over the Articles of Concessions referring to the Qualification of Freeholders, Quit-Rents and Patents granted by Lord Berkeley and Sir George Carteret, the Original Proprietors of New Jersey, in their "Concessions" dated February 10, 1664.

The original from which this copy was made has, apparently, been long forgotten or destroyed, as there is no printed reproduction of it in the Collection of New Jersey Archives, nor is any reference there made regarding the same, neither does it appear to have come under the observation of any of the historians of the State.

A search among the records of old documents in the New York Public Library and in the New York Historical Society, has failed to procure any information tending to throw light on the proceedings of this Council meeting.

The struggle of the Duke of York for power in America and the forceful attitude of East Jersey were the immediate causes of a political struggle between Governor Edmund Andros of New York and Governor Philip Carteret of New Jersey, resulting in the arrest of Governor Carteret on May 1, 1780, by an armed posse of soldiers, who took him to New York, where he was imprisoned until May 27 of the same year. The jury refusing to convict him, Carteret returned to New Jersey under a pledge not to exercise his jurisdiction until the whole matter had been submitted to the King. Acting under the directions of Lady Elizabeth Carteret, widow and executrix of Sir George Carteret, Governor Carteret on July 22, 1681, laid claim to Staten Island as within the jurisdiction of New Jersey, which led to a quarrel with the Governor of New York. From this quarrel Carteret turned to his Assembly which convened at Elizabeth Town on October 19, 1681. A bitter controversy ensued, the Deputies being determined to assert and establish their fundamental right according to terms of the "Concession," as originally published in 1664, in which the Governor's authority to appoint his own councilors was questioned. This led to a long debate between the General Assembly and the Governor and his Council, in the course of which John Bowne, Speaker of the House of Deputies, made charges against Captain Vickers, a member of the Governor's Council, disputing the latter's right to a seat in the Council on the ground that he was not a freeholder, further adding,—"That ye said Robert Vickers was a man that no man knew from whence he came, and desired that the debate might be carried on by some other person." The Governor's decision to stand by the rights of his councilor led several of the Deputies to issue a "Protestation and Declaration" against the actions of the Governor and Council, in the matter regarding the status of the Freeholders, upon which the Governor dissolved the Assembly, a measure which the Deputies protested as one fatal to their rights and privileges.

The present "Declaration," issued a few days after the dissolution of the Assembly, is a Justification of the actions of the Governor and his Council. After dwelling on the troubles with Governor Andros and their termination and the subsequent troubles with the Assembly arising out of the rights of the Freeholders and culminating in the above mentioned debate, the "Declaration" reviews at great length the Rights of the Governor and Council as granted by the "Concessions" of February 10, 1664, and calls upon all loyal subjects of the King to refute the "Protestations and Declarations" issued by the "Pretended" Delegates, including John Bowne, Thomas Johnson, John Curtis, Samuel Dennis and John Elsby, to the end that all "ye Inhabitants of this Province may learn the golden Rule, to witt, to doo unto others as they would be doon unto."

1030. PROPRIETARY LANDS OF EAST NEW JERSEY. A Bill in the Chancery of New-Jersey, at the Suit of John Earl of Stair, and others, Proprietors of the Eastern-Division of New-Jersey; against Benjamin Bond, and some other Persons of Elizabeth-Town, distinguished by the Name of the Clinker Lot Right Men. With Three large Maps, done from Copper-Plates. To which is added, The Publications of the Council of Proprietors of East New-Jersey, and Mr. Nevill's Speeches to the General Assembly, concerning The Riots committed in New-Jersey, and the Pretences of the Rioters, and their Seducers. Small folio, half brown morocco, somewhat damaged by fire and smoke, one map has small portion of one corner missing, other two maps have, each, one margin slightly damaged, inner margin of title and of last two leaves torn defacing a few letters, outer edges ink-stained. Although this volume has been through fire, the binder has restored each leaf, strengthened the inner margin with linen and protected each side with transparent gauze; with the exception of the few letters on title, the text has not been damaged otherwise than mentioned above.

Printed by James Parker in New York, 1747; and a few Copies are to be Sold by him and Benjamin Franklin, in Philadelphia.

A weighty historical item relating to the Proprietary lands in New Jersey, containing papers which give a better light into the history and the constitution of New Jersey, than anything hitherto published, comprising the Bill presented by the Proprietors, with documents relating to the same. Inserted is a copy of "The New York Gazette, revived in the Weekly Post-Boy," May 7, 1747 (inner margin torn); there are, also, four pages reprinted from the "Post Boy," containing the two Speeches of Mr. Nevill (not given by Evans in his collation of the volume).

For more than thirty years prior to the publication of this item, there had been no important controversy between the grantees of Carteret and the Elizabethtown claimants under the Indian titles, due to the abstinence of the Carteret interests from enforcing their claims. During this time, a large quantity of these interests had come into the hands of Robert H. Morris and James Alexander, who held important offices in the colony. With other large proprietors they commenced action of ejection and suit for the recovery of quit-rent against the settlers, who immediately resorted to their Indian titles and formed an association consisting of a large portion of the inhabitants of the counties of Middlesex, Essex, Somerset and Morris. In September 1745 the Associates broke open the county gaol and delivered all persons committed at suit of the Proprietors. This led to the above-mentioned Bill, calling for a "Riot-Act," which was supported by the Governor and Council, but the Assembly not only rejected the bill, but sought to give more favorable color to the offences of the Association.

The title page of the present copy contains the autograph signature of Daniel Coxe, once a member of his Majesty's Council of New Jersey, whose property was burnt and pillaged by his friends, and later confiscated by the State of New Jersey.

1031. PROPRIETARY LANDS OF EAST NEW JERSEY. General Instructions by the Surveyor-General, to the Deputy Surveyors of the Eastern Division of New-Jersey. Woodcut Diagram. Folio, new boards, 6pp., uncut. [New York: Printed by James Parker, 1747]

A RARE PUBLICATION OF THE COUNCIL OF EAST JERSEY PROPRIETORS. UNKNOWN TO EVANS. Although without date or printer's mark, the typographical work is undoubtedly that of James Parker, displaying all the characteristics of type and make-up as found in his,—"A Bill in Chancery of New Jersey, at the Suit of John Earl of Stair."

Collation,—Caption title, p.1; Instructions (XVII), pp.1-4; Example, referred to in preceding instructions (diagram with explanation), p.5; Proclamation (relating to "Instructions") of George II. "The Eleventh Day of May in the Twentieth Year of our Reign" (1747), p.(6),—"Whereas it may greatly tend to prevent Frauds and Abuses, and to the Securities of the Properties of our Subjects, that the Surveyor General of the Eastern Division of New-Jersey for the Time being, and his lawful Deputies, be impowered, to swear all Chain-bearers and Markers, by them to be employed, to the due Execution of these their Offices."

The contentions between the Proprietors of East New Jersey and the purchasers of land under the Indian Deeds culminating in the Riots by the "Clinker Lot Right Men," in 1747, mentioned in the above "Bill," led to this Proclamation and to the Instructions by James Alexander, Surveyor-General of the Eastern Division of New Jersey.

1032. PROPRIETARY LANDS OF EAST NEW JERSEY. Printed Warrant and Instructions of Survey, 1784. "By [John Rutherford] Esquire; Surveyor-General of the Lands of the Eastern Division of the State of New Jersey, To [Benjamin Lyon]." With "Instructions from [John Rutherford], Surveyor-General of the Lands of the Eastern Division of the State of New Jersey, to [Benjamin Lyon];" also, a printed report of a survey of unappropriated land in the township of Hardystown, in the county of Sussex, surveyed for John Jackson, at the request of Peter Nokes, by John Stiles, Deputy-Surveyor, September 1, 1784, with pen and ink sketch of the same and a computation of the contents. Spp. folio [last page blank].

[Printed in the year 1784]

The original Commission, issued to Benjamin Lyon, Deputy Surveyor, April 15, 1789, by John Rutherford as Surveyor-General, signed and sealed, with Rutherford's signature in duplicate at end of Instructions. Never returned by Lyon and doubtless used by Andrew Bell, Surveyor-General, at a later date, as some of the original entries, both names and dates, have been altered. The printed survey at end was evidently given as a further help to the "Instructions" to show the right method of surveying. UNKNOWN TO SABIN.

1033. PROPRIETARY LANDS OF NEW JERSEY. BROADSIDE. An Act to prevent Persons, holding Shares of Propriety, from cutting Timber on the unlocated Lands in this State. Passed, February 10, 1794 [with two Extracts from an Act passed June 13, 1783, referred to in the above Act]. Folio. [Trenton: Isaac Collins (?), 1794]

A contemporary Broadside, without imprint, but in all probability by Isaac Collins, who at this time printed many of the State documents. NOT MENTIONED BY SABIN.

1037. PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF NEW JERSEY. Journal of the Votes and Proceedings of the Provincial Congress of New Jersey, Held at Trenton, October, 1775 [Samuel Tucker, President]. 8vo, newly bound in full brown morocco, lower corner of title and of first six leaves torn and remargined, each leaf within a protecting cover of transparent gauze.

Burlington: Printed and Sold by Isaac Collins, 1775

Complete, and with exception of the imperfection mentioned above, a perfect copy of the Journal of an Adjourned Session [October 3-28, 1775] of the Second Provincial Congress of New Jersey, containing the Resolutions for Defense; Raising battalions; Collection of taxes; Ordinance for compelling the payment of a tax from such persons as have refused to pay their quota; Acts for regulating the militia; and the Appointment of members of the Committee of Safety.

ONE OF ONLY FOUR KNOWN COPIES, two of which (this and the copy following) were collected by Mr. Nelson and are now offered for sale. Evans in his bibliography mentions but one copy, that in the New York Public Library. Unknown to Sabin. Thomas F. Gordon, the historian of New Jersey, in all his researches was unable to locate a copy, and in a footnote to his history gives as his opinion that no such Journal was printed, stating that,—“The proceedings, then had, do not seem to have been considered important, since they were not printed, so far as my researches have enabled me to discover.” The contents of the present volume, however, show that Gordon was wrong in his supposition, as many of the Resolutions contained herein vitally affected the military service of the Colony.

1038. PROVINCIAL CONGRESS OF NEW JERSEY. Another copy of the preceding, 8vo. recently bound in three quarter brown morocco, name in gilt on back, without the announcement of Collins as printer on verso of title which contains old writing thereon and lacks portions of lower margin, and all margins and corners more or less clipped by binder and each leaf within transparent gauze.

Burlington: Printed and Sold by Isaac Collins, 1776

EXCESSIVELY RARE FIRST SEPARATE PUBLICATION OF ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT STATE ORDINANCES PASSED DURING THE FIRST YEAR OF THE WAR. Under it the Militia of New Jersey was enrolled for the defense of the State,—the Battles of Trenton, Princeton and Brandywine were undertaken,—a call went out for the enrollment of all male persons between the ages of sixteen and fifty,—and provision created for a monthly payment by all those persons [Quakers] whose religious principles prevented them from enrolling.

EVIDENTLY THE FIRST COPY TO BE OFFERED AT PUBLIC SALE IN AMERICA. Not in Sabin. Evans gives only a portion of the title [not mentioning the part relating to Continental Articles of War] and does not give collation nor cite a known copy, showing that in all his own extensive research he was unable to locate one.

New York: Printed by John Anderson, 1776

Noted by Sabin, but without mention of copy examined; Evans describes that in the Library of Congress, which, however, may have been the copy seen by Sabin. THE ABOVE IS VERY PROBABLY ONE OF ONLY TWO OR THREE COPIES IN EXISTENCE.

The first Committee of Safety was appointed in 1775 by the Provincial Congress which met in August of that year. It was formed, virtually, to carry on the work of the Congress while that body took a recess, and its powers were many and varied, equalling in many respects the powers of the Legislature itself. Not until March, 1777, was any law passed exactly defining its limitations. Then the Committee became especially constituted to deal with crime and disloyalty, and had bodies of soldiers appointed for the purpose of carrying out its decrees. Its work in each instance was both necessary and beneficial.

At the sitting of the Congress immediately preceding, a report of which is given in the volume catalogued just previous to this, the Committee of Safety then appointed was composed of,—Samuel Tucker, President; Hendrick Fisher, Vice-President; Abraham Clark, D. Secretary; Azariah Dunham, and others, and the minutes and ordinances thereof are printed in the volume here described.

Like its predecessors, this Provincial Congress exercised the whole power of State, assuming control of its funds, and directing its physical energies. Considerable space in this volume refers to the scarcity of arms and ammunition of which the procurement was most difficult. Especially was such the case in the equipment of Colonel Maxwell's battalion ordered to march to Canada, but which was unable to do so until arms, &c. were supplied, which, eventually, was done chiefly through the patriotism of individuals and the assistance of the county committees.

Mention is made of the anticipated seizure of provisions by the British men-of-war Asia and Phoenix then stationed in the Bay between Sandy Hook and the Narrows, and which the Congress handled thus:—"Resolved, That provisions and all other kinds of Produce of this Colony, be immediately prevented from being sent to New York, or other parts, whereby they must pass New York bay, or the bay between Sandyhook and Perth Amboy, or Staten Island: And all owners and masters of vessels of every kind, are prohibited from sending out provisions or produce from any part of this Province as aforesaid, until permitted by Congress."

Many other matters of vital interest are taken up by this Congress, including,—the encouragement for enlisting which carried with it exemption of person and goods from confiscation on account of debt; the procuring of an adequate supply of nitre and salt on the manufacturing of both of which was placed a bounty; the disposition of blankets which had become very scarce and were sadly needed for the troops; &c., &c.

Among the eight queries which he cites regarding finances are the following ". . . Has the success of our arms in any one instance helped the Value of our money? Would not the value remain the same if General Howe and his whole army were made prisoners of war . . . Is not the depreciated value of our money owing entirely to its excessive quantity? . . ." Regarding the case of Dr. Shippen he writes,—*"I have written to the committee appointed to enquire into Dr. Shippen's conduct in the hospital and have requested a court martial . . . The husband of Lady Cornbury was of such malodorous reputation that when, as Governor of New York, he made application to its General Assembly for a grant for a public funeral for his wife, they declined, but at the same time informed his Excellency that "they would readily respond at any time to a similar request for himself."

A closely written letter of advice, based on his own experience in life, in which he addresses this Southern Political Editor, as an “Ex-Republican.”—“. . . God send you a less thorny time of it than usually falls to the lot of the political editor . . . If my experience is to be at all significant of what you might expect, then you have a hard time before you. Toil without recompense, energy wasted without fruits, sensibilities excited only to be mortified, hopes kindled only to be put out forever . . . troubled in spirit,—perhaps ruined in fortune. Such was my lot . . . Believe me, my dear sir, my birthplace is still the most distant community in the country to acknowledge my claims; and I walk the streets of my native city, very much as if I were a stranger . . .”

In answer to a letter enclosing a criticism on George Ticknor, the Historian, regarding whom Simms writes,—". . . I found Ticknor, as you say, singularly dry . . . cold and tame. His chief merits (I had assumed) to be correctness of detail, and an ample accumulation of authority. It was evident that his temperament totally unfitted him for the first appreciation of all . . . the humanity of his subject. He is not capable of rising into enthusiasm . . . Is it not due to your author that you should wind up with a summary of his history? . . ."

1131. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. [HAMILTON (ALEXANDER).]. "The Society for the Establishing Useful Manufactures," [Reasons for establishing the society, scheme for the organization of the company, form of Application for Subscribers and Appointment of Attorneys.] Pp. [1] to 10. 8vo, new boards, apparently published without title-page, margins slightly smoked; each leaf inlaid and protected by transparent gauze.

[New Brunswick, 1791?]

AN EXCEEDINGLY INTERESTING ITEM, WRITTEN OR INSPIRED BY ALEXANDER HAMILTON, who refers to this society in his celebrated report on the American Manufactures, while Secretary of the United States Treasury. In the present copy, the blank space in the Subscriber's Application is filled in with the names of William Duer (First Governor of the Society), Elias Boudinot, Nicholas Low, Philip Livingston and four others, as Attorneys for the society.

The investigations of Alexander Hamilton and other leading spirits of the day, led to the development of a manufacturing project which in its time was the boldest ever conceived in the United States. Immediately after the War of the Revolution, the founders of the Republic decided that measures must be adopted for the production of cotton and woollen fabrics. With this end in view Hamilton and a few others determined to lay the foundation of a system of domestic manufactures, and applied to the Legislature of New Jersey for aid. A charter was granted November 22, 1791, and under it was formed "The Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures." Hamilton shrewdly gave out that the proposed manufacturing city might be located in either New York, New Jersey or Pennsylvania, and men from all three states, besides capitalists in Amsterdam, became interested in the enterprise. The following item, however, shows that in his own mind he had from the first decided that the new town should be located at the falls of the Passaic.

1132. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. HAMILTON (ALEXANDER). A. L. S., 2pp. folio, n.p.n.d. [1791-1792]. With full address in Hamilton's own hand, and his signature in corner. To "Nicholas Low, John Bayard & Elisha Boudinot, Esquires, Committee of the Directors of the Society for Est. useful Manufactures, New Ark." Lower corners damaged by fire and smoke, destroying three or four letters on first page; repaired and protected by transparent gauze.

A HIGHLY IMPORTANT LETTER RELATING TO THE SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES IN THE UNITED STATES AND TO THE SELECTION OF A TOWNSHIP SITE COMPRISING THE PRESENT TOWN OF PATERSON, NEW JERSEY.

Written soon after the organization of the company at New Brunswick on the last Monday in November, 1791. A clause in the charter granted to the Society called for the erection of a municipality comprising a territory "six Miles square," to be called Paterson in honor of Governor Paterson, who signed the act of incorporation of the Society.

Written to the Directors of the company,—"I had a full conversation with General Schuyler on the subject of the several propositions which have been under consideration respecting the location of the buildings for the Manufactory. My original impressions on the point have been confirmed by subsequent examination & I now entertain no doubt that the most advisable course is to abandon for the present the idea of a Canal and to erect the necessary buildings near the Great Falls."

It is not clear to me that the advantages of pursuing the Canal plan would at any rate compensate the difference of expense . . .

As to the location of the District or Township I think it ought to comprehend the little Falls and the head of the Navigation of the Passaic and ought to embrace both sides of that River the whole distance between those two points . . .

Permit me to suggest that as soon as the location is made a Meeting of the Directors ought to be called at a very short day. Many things press & much will depend on going forward henceforth with ardor & dispatch . . ."

According to the above suggestion, the meeting was held at the Falls, on July 4, 1792, when it was formally voted to locate the town of Paterson thereat.

1133. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. DUER (WILLIAM—Member of the New York Provincial Congress, and the Committee of Safety, Member of the Committee that drafted the first Constitution of New York, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under Hamilton). D. S., 1p. oblong 8vo, New York, December 10, 1791. Stock Certificate for one share of stock in the above mentioned society, issued to Richard Cox [Captain in the Third New Jersey Regiment during the American Revolution], signed by Duer as Governor of the society and countersigned by Elisha Boudinot as Secretary pro tem.

New York: Printed by Hugh Gaine [1791]

Among the internal troubles infesting the Society soon after its incorporation was the dishonesty of several of its officers. The minutes under date of July 7, 1794, state that the Secretary, Benjamin Walker, was directed to withhold the issue of certain certificates for shares of stock which the first governor, William Duer, had paid for, "unless he account for deficiencies." Mr. Duer's failure in 1792 produced the first financial panic caused by speculation that New York had ever witnessed.

Hamilton May 3 1842

I leave with much regret, though under the appearance of ~~regret~~ must have thanked you, not with much surprise, of your determination to decline the appointment of Superintendent of the Manufacturing Society. This institution has presented itself to my mind as of such real public importance, that I feel myself much interested in its success; and I acknowledge that I continue to entertain a conviction of the practicability of improving that success by judicious management. To this end a fit person as Superintendent is undoubtedly an essential mean. And my repeated reflections have proved to me that it is far from easy to find a choice officer of character -

SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES

(See No. 1134)

1134. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. HAMILTON (ALEXANDER). A. L. S., 4pp. 4to, Philadelphia, May 3, 1792. To Nehemiah Hubbard [First Engineer and Superintendent of the Society], slight tear in fold.

Hamilton herein urges Hubbard to accept the appointment of Engineer and Superintendent so as to insure the success of the undertaking. Hubbard served only a short time, being succeeded by the brilliant Frenchman, Major L'Enfant.

"... This institution [The Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures] has presented itself to my mind as of such real public importance, that I feel myself much interested in its success; and I acknowledge that I continue to entertain a conviction of the practicability of insuring that success by judicious management. To this end a fit person as Superintendent is undoubtedly an essential means. And my repeated reflections have proved to me that it is far from easy to find a choice of proper characters. Hence I feel a peculiar anxiety that you should reconsider your resolution and still consent to undertake the business.

Those characters in the Direction who were too much envelopped in Speculation to pay proper attention to the trust will henceforth be out of the Question and I entertain no doubt that the next Election will supply these plans in a manner which will inspire confidence. I am also persuaded that the Superintendent, if a competent and trust-worthy person, will be clothed with such a portion of discretionary authority as will enable him to fulfil the objects of the Society . . .

The Society meet on the 15th inst . . . If I can by that time announce that you are willing to serve the Company, it will give me particular satisfaction . . ."

1135. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. HAMILTON (ALEXANDER). A. L. S., 2pp. 4to, Philadelphia, July 23, 1792. To B. Walker [New York].

Relates to the affairs of the Society, and written to Benjamin Walker, who served during the Revolution as captain in the Second New York regiment, was aide-de-camp to General Washington and Baron Steuben, and who, after the war, was Secretary to the Governor of New York, later becoming a broker in New York City.

"Since my last to you it has occurred to me that the concerns of the Society for establishing useful Manufactures, in England, are not in such hands as might be wished, that is such of which there is sufficient knowledge. Would it not be advisable that some known and responsible character should be author to and requested to take up the affair?—The endeavour ought to be not to let bills return protested. It would be far better to agree to pay off the sums for which they are pledged."

Referring to George Parkinson and the distress of his family in New York, Hamilton writes,—". . . He is engaged in the service of the Society . . . I wish you to advance for him 100 Dollars. If it cannot be done out of the funds of the Society for want of authority, I will replace it on your signifying to me that such is the case. It will have a bad effect to let the persons employed suffer."

A marginal note in Hamilton's handwriting referring to the "starred" word "author" in the first paragraph of the letter, states "in concert if you please with King," referring apparently to Hamilton's desire for the services of Rufus King, the celebrated statesman.

The George Parkinson here noted was foreman of a division in the Cotton Mill.

1136. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. Portion of the Original Manuscript List of Subscribers for Stocks, 2pp. 4to, containing 22 AUTOGRAPH SIGNATURES of the Original Subscribers, among whom are Elias Boudinot (President of the Continental Congress), Joseph Bloomfield (Governor of New Jersey), Richard Stockton (Signer of the Declaration of Independence), John Cox, James F. Armstrong, Samuel Henry, James Griffiths, Benjamin Vaneleve, Isaac Smittz and others; FENNO (JOHN—Publisher of the United States Gazette, Philadelphia). A. D., 1p. 4to, Philadelphia, September 7, 1793. Bill to the above mentioned society for advertising and printing, from March 6 to June 15, 1793. Together 3 pieces, somewhat stained, corner torn; all three protected by transparent gauze. [1792-1793]

1137. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. WATSON (JAMES—Senator in Congress from New York and previously a member of the Assembly of New York). L. S., 1p. 4to, with address, New York, February 18, 1793. To Nicholas Low [one of the Directors of the above mentioned society], slightly stained by water; repaired and protected by transparent gauze.

Concerns the appointment of Peter Colt as Superintendent of the Society; mentions Alexander Hamilton.—"Conformably to the request of the Secretary of the Treasury, and the express desire of such of the Directors as I happened to see, I went in October last to Connecticut, & had the good fortune to engage Mr. Peter Colt to superintend the Factory.—His Salary is one thousand pounds per annum . . ."

1138. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. COLT (PETER—Treasurer of the State of Connecticut and Superintendent of the above Society). A. L. S., 3pp. folio, Hartford, May 7, 1793, waterstained, inner margin torn slightly damaging some of the letters; repaired and protected by transparent gauze.

The original draft of a letter written to ALEXANDER HAMILTON, soon after his own appointment as Superintendent of the Society, having been engaged by the Directors on January 1, 1793, to take "charge and oversight," and to manage the works "as if they were his own property." He continued to direct the operations of the Society until adversity compelled it to succumb on the 7th of May, 1797. A manuscript note in his own handwriting states "Somewhat altered in the diction in the copy sent forward."

An extremely interesting letter in which the writer refers at length to the management of the affairs of the Society in connection with Major L'Enfant whose extravagant ideas brought the Society to the verge of bankruptcy, and who soon after Colt's appointment was dismissed from its employ.

Speaks of his own absence from Paterson on account of sickness in his family, the changes in salary of various employees and the troubles arising out of the appointment of Major L'Enfant to construct the Canal,—"The Directors at their last meeting seemed seriously alarmed at the extensive plans & views of Maj. L'Enfant—and came together seemingly determined to confine his operations strictly to the Canal and so place everything else under my sole management. But Maj. L'Enfant stating the impropriety of making any new arrangement respecting laying out the Town (of Paterson)—it was conceded that whatever was done in that respect should be solely confided to him . . . We have much to fear from the present state of the funds of the Society. It is probable that the third payment which falls due the 13th this month, will be made on only one half of the original shares—and that the whole of this & the fourth payment, which falls due the 13 July next, will be in funded Debt instead of cash . . . It may be difficult to borrow Money sufficient for the expenditure of this summer & fall, on the Credit of the Society's stock . . ."

1139. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. COLT (PETER). A. L. (with signature defaced), 2pp. folio, with addressed portion, Paterson, January 27, 1794. To Elisha Boudinot (Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey and a large subscriber to the shares of the Society),—damaged by smoke, lower line of first page and signature portion defaced; protected by transparent gauze.

"C. V. Winkle continues to consider himself as joint owner of the land purchased of him—and cuts wood for fuel & other purposes on it without reserve. Measures should therefore be taken for causing a division, as early as the nature of the Business will permit, that the Society may know where their property lies . . . The entire want of snow has prevented my making any contracts for Rails for the purpose of enclosing the lands of the Society . . . I have not taken any measures respecting a Surveyor to lay out the Town of Paterson . . ."

1140. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. Boudinot (Elisha—Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey and a Director of the Society). A. L. S., 1p. folio, New Ark, April 18, 1795;—A. L. S., 2pp. 4to, New Ark, June 20, 1795. Both letters addressed to Peter Colt, the Third Superintendent of the Society, damaged by smoke and water, the second letter badly faded; both protected by transparent gauze. Together, 2 pieces.

Refers to Alexander Hamilton and to an order for cotton to London. The first letter is a personal one.

1141. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. Colt (R. L.—Governor of the Society). A. L. S., 1p. folio, with address, Trenton, January 22, 1836. To Philemon Dickinson, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., margins damaged by smoke; protected by transparent gauze.

R. L. Colt, son of Peter, the first efficient Superintendent of the Society, was for many years, virtually, THE SOCIETY, having absorbed its depreciated stock and by his remarkable energy infused new life into the paralyzed corporation. The present letter relates to his troubles with the M. C. & B. Co." Regarding their "Memorial" to the Legislature he says,—"I am now fully satisfied they never meant to treat with us, that all their object was to gain time and throw dust in the eyes of the good People of Paterson . . . I will kill their whole Bill."

1142. SOCIETY FOR ESTABLISHING USEFUL MANUFACTURES, PATERSON, NEW JERSEY. To the Honorable The Senate and House of Representatives: The Memorial of the Society for Establishing Useful Manufactures at Paterson. Signed by R. L. Colt, Governor of the Society. 3pp. folio. Paterson [printed], 1845

By 1796 the Society was out of funds and in March of the following year decided to lease its mill, after which the board of directors met only at long intervals in an endeavor to raise funds by means of lotteries and other methods. The present "Memorial" reviews at length the lottery privileges granted in their charter and gives a list of the Society's heavy losses from August 1816 to September 1843.

Receipts for various amounts for quit rent from Hermanus Gerrisse and others, also agreement with Frans. Post and others regarding lands. Together, 6 pieces, damaged by fire, three pieces have margins somewhat defaced; all repaired and protected by transparent gauze.

Sonmans, as Judge of the Inferior Court of Pleas in the County of Middlesex, was indicted for perjury by the Grand Jury of the County in 1708. As a member of the Council he made himself so obnoxious that he with several others were removed from office. In order if possible to prevent the renewal of Hunter's commission by King George I, he went to England, taking with him for this purpose, the Records of the Province of New Jersey.

1147. SOUTHARD (SAMUEL L.—Governor of New Jersey, United States Senator, Secretary of the Navy). A. L. S., 3pp. 4to, with address, Trenton, September 12, 1830. To Gustavus H. Scott, smoke-stained, protected by transparent gauze.

Political letter written while Attorney-General of New Jersey.

1148. SPRINGFIELD, NEW JERSEY. The Trial of Lieut. Col. Thomas on a charge exhibited by Lieut. Col. Cosmo Gordon, for aspersing his Character, by accusing him of Neglect of Duty . . . on the 23d of June, 1780, near Springfield, in the Jerseys: Containing the Whole Proceedings of a General Court-Martial held September 16-26, 1780. 12mo, half calf. London, 1781

This is the Colonel Thomas who, at the Battle of Springfield, charged Cosmo Gordon with not doing his duty before the enemy. As a consequence, Gordon, who was Thomas' superior officer, ordered him "into an arrest at large." The trial here reported is the outcome of that arrest. Mr. Nelson's reason for the absence of Colonel Gordon at the critical period noted [See his sketch,—"A Red Rose," &c.] may possibly not square with the historical actuality, but it is not without the bounds of both possibility and plausibility. It would show one motive, at least, of his "secretly and scandalously aspersing his [Gordon's] character, in a manner unlike an officer and a gentleman." Nevertheless, Colonel Thomas was acquitted. Adye was the Deputy Judge-Advocate as in the trial of Gordon.

1149. SPRINGFIELD, NEW JERSEY. The Trial of the Hon. Col. Cosmo Gordon for Neglect of Duty before the Enemy, on the 23d of June, 1780, near Springfield, in the Jerseys; Containing the Whole Proceedings of a General Court-Martial held August 22-September 4, 1782. 12mo, half calf. London, 1783; Two (2) Manuscript Biographical sketches of Gordon, folio, 3pp. and 13pp., one furnished by Henry C. Strippel, the other taken from "The Scots' Peerage," loose sheets; and, 7pp. of typewritten manuscript of a romantic short-story, unsigned, but authoritatively attributed to Mr. William Nelson, entitled,—"A Red Rose—Springfield, 1780—and After," which appeared anonymously in the Paterson, New Jersey, Call, several years ago. Together, 4 pieces.

The volume containing the printed proceedings of Cosmo Gordon's Trial presents much interesting information relative to the Battle of Springfield, New Jersey, in which the American forces were commanded by General Greene, the British by General Clinton, with General Knyp-hausen his second in rank. A very good description of the town and its surroundings at this early date may be gathered from the testimony of the witnesses at the trial.

Cosmo Gordon was a descendant of the Earls of Aberdeen and served for a number of years in America. Early in the Revolution, when Light Horse Harry Lee captured the Block House at Paulus Hook [Jersey City] on August 22, 1779, the British sent over reinforcements under Gordon. The charge against Gordon was that of "skulking" at the time of the Springfield battle, and was preferred against him by his junior officer, Colonel Thomas, who commanded Gordon's corps during the unusual absence of that officer. The latter, however, was acquitted by the Court-Martial of which Stephen Payne Adye was the Deputy Judge-Advocate.

The charming short-story by Mr. Nelson has been written around Colonel Cosmo Gordon and Kitty Alexander, Lord Stirling's daughter and cousin of Governor William Livingston. Colonel Thomas also appears in the story as the insatiable persecutor of Gordon by whom, at a considerably later period, the former is killed in a duel by the latter, and for which "wilful murder," so characterized by the coroner's jury, Gordon became a wanderer and an outcast.

1160. STIRLING (WILLIAM ALEXANDER, LORD—Revolutionary General, in command at New York, December, 1776, one of the founders of Columbia College). A. L. S., 6pp. 4to, New York, February 11, 1762, to [Robert D'Arcy, Lord Holderness].
As early as 1757, William Alexander had commenced to prosecute his claims to the Earldom of Stirling. In this letter among matters relating to his large estates in New York and New Jersey,—the taking of the port and town of Havannah,—the practicability of making from that place an attack on Louisiana,—the likelihood of his securing the position of Collector of Customs for New York, &c., Stirling states as follows concerning the Earldom;—"In the meantime if the House of Lords inclines to go into examination of the foundation of my Title, I have ordered Mr. Dagge my Solicitor, to lay a full State of my Case before their Lordships with the Evidence in Support of it . . . and therefore should be glad to have the proceedings in Scotland brought before their Lordships that they may be satisfied that I hold my Title agreeable to the practice of that Country and in the most Authentic Manner."

1161. STIRLING (WILLIAM ALEXANDER, LORD). A. L. S., 3pp. 4to, Baskenridge, February 23, 1765, to [Alexander Parker], preserved within transparent gauze sheets.

Hints at a "February thaw" which made the roads so bad that in an attempt to visit the recipient he could only get as far as New Brunswick where he was on that account compelled to turn about and return to his home,—mentions certain lands in New Jersey "belonging to your father and uncle" which remain unsold and are valuable only for the wood that is on them,—desires seeds and shrubs for his place,—and that "Lady Stirling begs you will not forget to send her the two receipts for making pickles which you promised her."

1162. STIRLING (WILLIAM ALEXANDER, LORD). Condition of the Vendue held here [sic] this Day, for the Sale of the Goods and Chattels, Lands and Tenements of the Right Honble. William, Earl of Stirling, taken in Execution, &c. 10pp. folio, made out in several handwritings, including a number of items in the autograph of Stirling, himself. Baskinridge, November 23, 1775.

AN UNUSUAL DOCUMENT relating to the Unrestricted Public Sale of Lord Stirling's goods, &c., with the names of purchasers and the prices paid, at which sale Philip Livingston, the Signer and nephew of Lord Stirling, appears to have been the principal buyer, among his purchases being a copy of Dr. Johnson's famous Dictionary for which he paid £35.0. Other buyers were,—Elias and Elisha Boudinot; Captain Wade, who, also, secured an item or so for Richard Stockton, Signer; Thomas Burger; &c.

The vendue, which lasted for several days, took place about two months after Stirling had received his army commission from the Provincial Congress. Before, however, joining the troops, he obtained from the State of New Jersey an act enabling him to dispose of all his real and personal property in said State for the benefit of his numerous creditors therein. This sale was the outcome; but owing to the reconsideration of the Act by the Legislature, meanwhile, the financial results of the sale became valueless to Stirling, and his debts still continued in force.

1163. STIRLING (WILLIAM ALEXANDER, LORD). D. S., 1p. folio, March 18, 1769, certifying to sale of land to Kenneth Anderson in the City of Perth Amboy, with signature of James Parker; L. S., 2pp. folio, Elizabeth Town, January 21, 1776, in reply to notification from [Philip Livingston and Francis Lewis] of the illegal loading of several vessels at Elizabethtown, Rahway, &c. with lumber for the West Indies; L. S., 2pp. folio, Elizabeth Town, January 28, 1776, upon receipt of information from Henry Remsen, Chairman of the Committee of Safety at New York, January 23, 1776, concerning the loading of vessels with provisions at Perth Amboy, &c. Together, 3 pieces.

1164. STIRLING (WILLIAM ALEXANDER, LORD). Scarce Collection of Papers formerly in the possession of Lord Stirling, including Receipts for discharge of debts; Memorandum Invoices; Legal Documents, &c., various dates from 1771 to 1787, in the handwriting of different parties, with signatures of Elisha Boudinot, William Pidgeon, &c., and some notations, &c. in Stirling's own autograph. Together, 15 pieces, folio and smaller. V.p.v.d.

An account in the Dutch language of the wonderful trance of William Tennent, son of the William Tennent, the Irish educator, who in 1728 founded the famous "Log College" for the training of Presbyterian ministers, which was the germ from which Princeton and several other colleges sprang.

The son, William, of whom this pamphlet is concerned, came to this country with his father and brothers in 1718. It was while he was about finishing a course of study with his brother Gilbert in New Brunswick, that he fell into this remarkable cataleptic fit which lasted some weeks and out of which Tennent came with memory completely gone, insomuch that he had to learn to read and write anew. It was not until he had experienced a shock of considerable severity that his former knowledge returned to him. Soon after his recovery, he became a pastor in Freehold, where he remained for nearly fifty years.

BY HIS EXCELLENCY

WILLIAM LIVINGSTON, Esq.

Governor, Captain-General and Commander in Chief in and over the State of New-Jersey, and Territories thereto belonging, Chancellor and Ordinary in the same.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the United States in Congress assembled did, on the eighteenth Day of October last past, issue a Proclamation in the Words following, to wit,

WHEREAS it hath pleased the Supreme Ruler of all human Events to dispose the Hearts of the late belligerent Powers to put a Period to the Effusion of human Blood, by proclaiming a Cessation of all Hostilities by Sea and Land; and these United States are not only happily released from the Dangers and Calamities to which they have been so long exposed, but their Freedom, Sovereignty and Independence ultimately acknowledged. And whereas in the Progress of a Contest on which the most essential Rights of human Nature depend, the Interposition of Divine Providence in our Favour hath been most abundantly and most graciously manifested, and the Citizens of these United States have every Reason for Praise and Gratitude to the God of their Salvation. Impressed, therefore, with an exalted Sense of the Blessings by which we are surrounded, and of our entire Dependence on that Almighty Being, from whose Goodness and Bounty they are derived, the United States in Congress assembled do recommend it to the several States to set apart the second Thursday in December next, as a Day of publick Thanksgiving, that all the People may then assemble to celebrate with grateful Hearts and united Voices, the Fruits of their Supreme and all countifull Benefactor for his numberless Favours and Mercies—that he hath been pleased to conduct us in Safety through all the Perils and Vicissitudes of the War—that he hath given us Unanimity and Resolution to adhere to our just Rights—that he hath raised up a powerful Ally to assist us in supporting them, and hath so far crowned our Efforts with Success, that in the Course of the present Year Hostilities have ceased, and we are left in the undisturbed Possession of our Liberties and Independence, and of the Fruits of our own Lands, and in the free Participation of the Treasures of the Sea—that he hath prospered the Labour of our Husbandmen with plentiful Harvests—and above all, that he hath been pleased to continue to us the Light of the blessed Gospel, and secured to us in the fullest Extent, the Rights of Conscience in Faith and Worship: And while our Hearts overflow with Gratitude and our Lips set forth the Praises of our great Creator, that we also offer up fervent Supplications, that it may please him to pardon all our Offences, to give Wisdom and Unanimity to our publick Councils, to cement all our Citizens in the Bonds of Affection, and to inspire them with an earnest Regard for the national Honour and Interest, to enable them to improve the Days of Prosperity by every good Work, and to be Lovers of Peace and Tranquillity: that he may be pleased to bless us in our Husbandry, our Commerce and Navigation, to smile upon our Studies and Means of Education, to cause Religion and Virtue to flourish, to give Peace to all Nations, and to fill the World with his Glory.

I have therefore thought fit by and with the Advice of the Honourable the Privy-Council (as well in Conformity to the said Proclamation as from a deep Sense of our indispensable Obligations to testify in the most publick Manner our Gratitude to Almighty God for his unspeakable Goodness towards us) to appoint the said second Thursday of December next, to be set apart and observed as a Day of publick Thanksgiving in this State; and I do hereby earnestly recommend it to the Ministers of the Gospel of every Denomination therein to perform Divine Service, and to the People committed to their Charge to attend on publick Worship on that Day, and to abstain from all servile Labour, and all Recreations inconsistent with the Solemnity of the Festival.

Given under my Hand and Seal at Arms at Trenton, the eleventh Day of November, in the Year of our Lord One Thousand Seven Hundred and Eighty-three, and of the Sovereignty and Independence of the United States of America the eighth.

WIL. LIVINGSTON.

By His Excellency's Command,
BOWEN REED, Secretary.

The author was a French-Quaker philanthropist whose parents fled from France after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. In 1742 he was instructor in the Friends' English School in Philadelphia. His devotion to the cause of the abolition of slavery was vigorous and lasting, and upon that, and other subjects, he wrote many tracts, which, for the most part, were gratuitously distributed throughout the United States.

This sermon was preached at Princeton over the remains of Richard Stockton, the Signer of the Declaration of Independence, who had died in that township on February 28, 1781. Contains on pp45-48 a "short elegy" to the memory of her husband, by Mrs. Stockton, a sister of Dr. Boudinot and wellknown for her literary abilities, and, also, a "sudden production" by the same hand.

Governor, Captain-General and Commander in Chief in and over the State of New-Jersey, and Territories thereunto belonging, Chancellor and Ordinary in the same. PROCLAMATION; Whereas the United States in Congress assembled did, on the eighteenth Day of October last past, issue a Proclamation in the Words following, to wit, 'Whereas it has pleased the supreme Ruler of all human Events to dispose the Hearts of the late belligerent Powers to put a Period to the Effusion of human Blood, by proclaiming a Cessation of all Hostilities by Sea and Land; and these United States are not only happily rescued from the Dangers and Calamities to which they have been so long exposed, but their Freedom, Sovereignty and Independence, ultimately acknowledged; . . . the United States in Congress assembled do recommend it to the several States to set apart the second Thursday in December, next, as a Day of publick Thanksgiving. . . .' I have therefore thought fit . . . to appoint the said second Thursday of December next, to be set apart and observed as a Day of publick Thanksgiving." Dated "Trenton, the eleventh Day of Novemebr, 1783." Signed, "Wil[liam] Livingston [Governor of New Jersey]". Folio, faint smoke-stain and small hole damaging one word; neatly protected by transparent gauze.

Trenton: Printed by Isaac Collins, Printer to the State [1783]

SUPPOSED TO BE THE ONLY KNOWN COPY. NOT MENTIONED BY EITHER SABIN OR EVANS. Although all the Governors of the Original Thirteen States issued Proclamations appointing a day of public thanksgiving for the success of the American Arms and the acknowledgment of American Independence, very few copies were printed in Broadside form, and of these, all but an insignificant number must have been destroyed during the early days of the Republic. Mr. Evans mentions but five issues, those by the United States government, and the states of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Delaware and Pennsylvania, and of these he locates only four copies, two of which are the Connecticut issue and one each of Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

1203. TRENTON, NEW JERSEY, IMPRINT. The Holy Bible, Containing the Old and New Testaments: Translated out of the Original Tongues: and with the Former Translations diligently compared and revised. 4to, original calf, joints somewhat weak, small portions of back missing, presentation inscription on title.

Trenton: Printed and Sold by Isaac Collins, 1791

THE FIRST BIBLE PRINTED IN NEW JERSEY, AND ONE OF THE FIRST TWO QUARTO BIBLES PRINTED IN ENGLISH IN AMERICA. Contains the Old and New Testaments, with the Apocrypha (followed by two blank leaves) inserted between them,—the Epistle to the Reader, by Dr. Witherspoon, instead of the King James Dedication,—Account of the most remarkable passages in both Testaments,—and Downname's Concordance, printed in 1790.

As early as 1788-9, Collins announced his intention to publish his Bible in "one large volume of nine hundred and eighty four pages," the price to be to subscribers, "four Spanish dollars." In time, Collins received the necessary support for his venture and put out an edition of five thousand copies, some of them, in deference to the sensibilities of certain denominations, without the Apocrypha and the King James' Dedication, and others as per copy here catalogued.

It is stated by Dr. Wright that this Bible was printed with the utmost carefulness, Dr. Witherspoon and others having read the proof-sheets nearly a dozen times before the final impressions were made.

1204. TRENTON, NEW JERSEY, IMPRINT. The Holy Bible, Containing the Old and New Testament: Translated out of the Original Tongues. 8vo, original calf, somewhat worn in binding, a few leaves loose, portions of text of several leaves missing.

Trenton: Printed and Sold by Isaac Collins, 1793

Collins' Octavo Bible, with Dr. Witherspoon's note to the Reader and without the Apocrypha. Titles within double rule and that of the New Testament dated 1794. On one of the blank leaves have been written two records of births. Isaiah Thomas speaks of this as "a handsome and very correct edition." Also, he mistakenly calls it the first edition of the Bible printed at Trenton, forgetting the quarto edition of two years previous, or, perhaps, not possessing actual knowledge of it.

Craft was one of the publishers of the "Federalist, and New Jersey State Gazette" which started in 1798 [1791?] and is still printed in Trenton but under the appellation,—Daily Gazette. The author dedicates his pamphlet to Albert Gallatin whom he begs to read it,—"if you have supposed that you saw in the French the true friends of liberty; if you have taken the declarations of the Directory, for the principles of their conduct;" &c.

Trenton: Published by D. Fenton [L. Deare, printer, N. Brunswick], 1811

UNUSUAL AND CURIOUS. Comprises the actual experiences of a German traveller through Mexico, Georgia, Louisiana, &c., who speculated in lands, enacted the part of a prestidigitateur occasionally, gave public balloon ascensions, &c. from all of which he derived sufficient to support himself during his travels.

While in New Orleans he built a balloon at a cost of about one thousand dollars. In a single exhibition of this aircraft, he took in, as per his own statement, about twenty-five hundred dollars. Unfortunately, while he was about half a mile up in the atmosphere, his agent absconded with most of the money, leaving him for the time being practically penniless. There are one or two descriptions of early electrical devices which are most interesting.

Has reference to supplies for the army and his trouble with General Schuyler over the quantity of rum for the troops,—“ . . . I Fear the Rule adopted that looses us, Genl. Arnold & some other good Officers, if carried thro' will, by & by have the most fatal Effects,”—referring to his brother Jonathan's commission as Colonel, he says,—“He is willing to Serve, if he can have Justice done him—without it—he cannot;” regarding General Schuyler he writes, “I am told Genl. Schuyler, is still at his old Game, attack’g the Commissary Department and now tacks to it the Quarter Master Department & hints that £30,000 in Each may be yearly pocketed, without being subject to discovery. Such oblique Insinuations, are what we must expect from such men . . . I am continually attacked & Insulted in my Office by Genl. Schuyler I hoped the Resolve of Congress ag’t him on that subject (supplies for the army), last fall would have had some Effect.”

1215. TRUMBULL (JOSEPH). A. L. S., 1p. folio, with address, Camp Middle Brook, 8th June, 1777. To Elbridge Gerry, Member of Congress.

Advocates auditors for the Commissary Department,—“. . . it would be very well to have a Sett of Auditors, always attending at or near Head Quarters . . . I think no payer of money’s ought to be Judge of particular propriety in all Cases.” In a foot-note he states that “The Spirit of Desertion rages in the Enemy’s Army, exceedingly—I believe they are on the eve of some movement, not very Agreeable to the Troops, I think it Indicated by the frequent Desertions.”

1216. TRUMBULL (JOSEPH). A. L. S., 3pp. 4to, with address, Camp Middle Brook, 13th June, 1777. To Elbridge Gerry, Member of Congress.

Relates to Mathew Irwin, who when the army at Valley Forge was destitute of clothing and provisions, subscribed £5,000 for its temporary support,—“I am informed, that there will be a hard push, to make Mr. Buchannan of Baltimore Deputy Commissary General of Purchases for the Middle Department . . . I think it will be very ungratefull to neglect Mr. Irwin, who last Winter, in our Extremity, & when everybody had Deserted, took up the Army & thro’ every difficulty of Season, Opposition from Bad men, & Insults of Haughty ones, Supplied & kept the Army together . . .” In a foot-note he states,—“We are under moving Orders—Watching the Motions of the Enemy—The Militia turn out beyond our most sanguine Expectations—It has rained Men some days Past—if it don’t Rain Provisions, I shall be Eat up.”

1217. TRUMBULL (JOSEPH). A. L. S., 3pp. 4to, with address, Camp Middle Brook, 19th June, 1777. To Elbridge Gerry, Member of Congress.

Mentions the capture of two lieutenants and twelve privates by the militia. Regarding the movements of the enemy he writes,—“The Enemy are retiring to Brunswick, this Morning—Col. Morgan & his light Troops & militia are hanging on their Rear, Supported by Genl. Sullivan’s division—Another Body are sent from hence on their Flanks, hope to give them a pretty good drubbing. This is bad news for us—had they attempted to go to Delaware, we were sure of them, now I expect they’ turn Amphibious & Run up the N. River, this will be bad exchange of Ground for us . . .” Mentions General Gates and Colonel Pickering; regarding supplies he says, “. . . it will be impossible to go much further without assistance from Congress . . .”

1218. TRUMBULL (JOSEPH). A. L. S., 3pp. 4to, with address, Camp Middle Brook, 21st June, 1777. To Elbridge Gerry, Member of Congress.

Relates to the management of the Commissary Department and his own “new appointment”; in a foot note he writes,—“The Enemy are retired to Brunswick again & lye very close—I have not the least Doubt, that they soon change their Quarters, & lead us a Chase somewhere—I expect up N. River—perhaps to New England.” A. L. S., 1p. 4to, n.p., n.d. To Elbridge Gerry (apparently written from Camp Middle Brook in June, 1777, as the letter refers to the Commissary Department and its regulation), “It is the Devil to depend on People, who are not Trustworthy.” Together, 2 pieces.

[New York] Printed for the Publishers, by James Caxton, 1856

FIRST EDITION. Very scarce, having been suppressed. Although the title-page bears the date 1856, the book was printed and issued secretly in 1836. The author, a half brother of John Randolph of Roanoke far excelled any of his Virginia contemporaries. The present work is his most remarkable composition, and purported to be an historical novel of the events between 1836 and 1856. In its accurate delineation of occurrences between 1861 and 1865, it seems almost prophetic.
